COMMU[illegible]

[FOR THE COURIER.]

How can I be gay?

It is not that I ne'er have loved,
The scene that nature fills,
Or that my eye can mark unmoved,
The moonlight on thy hills.

Thy murmuring shores, thy rippling streams,
Are oft my passions swaying,
The forest dell, the bright moon-beams,
Upon thy waters playing.

All these I love—the morn, the even,
The glowing east, the west,
The golden, glorious, skies of heaven,
The beautiful, the blessed.

Still while I gaze on hill or dale,
Or rivulet, or stream,
Or bask me in the evening gale,
In Luna's gentle beam.

Still fleeting all—the prospects fade,
But flourish to decay,
The moonlit walk, the forest glade,
The prospects—where are they?

The ship that bears my form away,
Along the rolling main,
An atom on thy big wave's spray,
May ne'er return again.

And genial bosoms, loved and blessed,
Athwart the ocean may
Be unforgotten—uncaressed,
Then how can I be gay?

Then tell me not that spring will bloom,
To chase the clouds of sorrow,
The sun that sets to-night in gloom,
May brightly rise to-morrow.

Too well I know the dear deceit,
That gilds the happy day,
When severed souls in union meet,
Why then they must be gay.

To lean upon thy gentle breast,
An instant, and away,
To snatch one moment from the rest,
One moment to be gay.

Then hear the thunders of the wave,
And see its fierce display,
The yawnings of my opening grave,
Forbid me to be gay.

St. John, 10th Oct. 1848. T. R. Duff.

BREEZE OF AUTUMN.

Breeze of Autumn! Breeze of Autumn!
Sighing through yon leafless tree;
Well with my dejected bosom
Suits thy wild lorn melody.
The gales of Spring light hearts may please,
I love the Autumn breeze.

Like Æolian lyre my bosom
Makes with thee her plaintive moan,
While each heart-string, wildly throbbing,
Sounds with thee in unison.
The gales of Spring light hearts may please,
I love the Autumn breeze.

Still to me thy dirge-like numbers,
Tell of joys forever fled;
Youth's bright dreams forever vanished,
Hopes enshrined with the dead.
The gales of Spring light hearts may please,
I love the Autumn breeze.

Breeze of Autumn! Breeze of Autumn!
When beneath the sod I lie,
O'er me sound no other requiem,
Than the music of thy sigh.
The gales of Spring light hearts may please,
I love the Autumn breeze.

VARIETY.

An Immense Bed of Gold, one hundred miles in extent, has been discovered in California, on American Fork and Feather rivers, tributaries of the Sacramento, near Monterey. Mr. Colton, the Alcade of Monterey, states that the gold is found in the sands, in grains resembling squirrel shot, flattened out. Some grains weigh one ounce each. It is got by washing out the sand in any vessel, from a tea saucer to a warming pan. A single person can gather an ounce or two a day, and some even a hundred dollars worth. Two thousand whites and as many Indians are on the ground. All the Americans' settlements are deserted, and farming nearly suspended. The women only remain in the settlements. Sailors and captains desert their ships to go to the gold region, and laborers refuse ten dollars a day to work on the farms.

Mr. Colton says:—"One man, who resides next door to me, gathered five hundred dollars worth in six days. He has one lump which weighs over an ounce. A trough such as you feed pigs in, will bring in the gold region, fifty dollars. Put a piece of sheet iron, punched with holes, on it, and it will bring a hundred. My friend J. R. paid sixteen dollars for a little basket, and his companion gave twenty for a chamber pot,—all to wash out the gold in."

More than twenty thousand dollars worth had been collected. Governor Mason and his aid had gone to the district which is five days journey from Monterey. "The natives have gone for gold, the sailors have run from the ships, and the soldiers from their camps, for the same purpose. The last vessel that left the coast was obliged to ship an entire new crew, and pay each fifty dollars a month. No one can be hired to dig gold short of sixteen or twenty dollars a day—he prefers working on his own hook—he may make less than that, but he has a chance of making much more. There flour is worth $32 per brl. 15 lbs. of Boston crackers in tin boxes, $10 a box; a cotton shirt, $10; boards, $500 per 1000 feet. A carpenter can get $100 per day. Mr. L. paid for a common cradle trough, 12 feet by 3 wide, to wash gold earth in, $150. Less than a day's work to make it."

More of the El Dorado.—The following extract of a letter to a gentleman in Washington, confirms all that has been said about the gold discovered in California, and is struck off in a very spirited style. We know not which most to admire, the curious facts which the writer states, or the charming manner in which they are presented:—Washington Union.

Monterey, Upper California, July 3, 1848

Dear Sir.—I gave you in my last letter some account of the mineral wealth of California. Silver quicksilver, lead and zinc, have been found in our mountains, and now it has been discovered that the sands which lie along Feather river, on the American fork, branches of the Sacramento, are richly impregnated with gold. It is found in a shape resembling snow flakes, and is washed from the sand with great ease. A person with a bason or bowl, will wash out from one to two ounces a day. Some, who have been more fortunate in the selection of their spots, have more than quadrupled this amount.—There is a man in Monterey who washed out five hundred dollars worth in six days. Everybody is now going or gone to this gold region. Some thousands are on the spot, and more are on the way. All Oregon, as soon as the news reaches there, will be down upon us. You can hardly hire a labourer here for ten dollars a day, and on the gold river he charges fifty. Mechanics, lawyers, and doctors, have all left for the gold region. Soldiers run from their camps, sailors from their decks, and women from their nurseries; their cradles answer for machines to wash out gold.

San Francisco, Sonoma, Santa Cruz, and San Jose, are deserted of their inhabitants, and the mass is beginning to move from Monterey. I shall soon be in the condition of a Colonel with his regiment disbanded. The tract of country in which the gold is found, extends over one hundred miles in one direction, and some forty in the other. It is supposed that ten thousand persons might work for years and not exhaust it. They have worked as yet only on the margin of the streams, on account of its convenience to the water; but the gold has been found leagues distant, and even on the mountains. Bowls and basins have been in great demand among the gold-washers. Tin pans have found a ready sale at eight dollars each; shovels at ten dollars; a trough scooped out of a log, with a willow sieve on it, one hundred dollars and boards, at the rate of five hundred dollars for a thousand feet. The price of board on the gold streams is three dollars a day. For this the boarder gets coarse bread, beef, and beans, a tree to sleep under, and an owl to hoot in his ear at night. The gold is sold here for fourteen dollars the ounce, and is worth eighteen at any mint. I know a little boy only twelve years of age, who washes out his ounce of gold a day, while his mother makes root beer, and sells it a dollar a bottle.

The fighting is all over with us here. People have no time to pick their flints; they are too much engrossed in picking for gold. This Placer was discovered some time since by a Mormon, but kept a secret till May last, when the golden chicken burst its shell, and is now a full grown cock, whose crowing has woke up all California, and will yet disturb the slumbers of other lands. The El Dorado of fiction never prompted dreams that revelled in gold like the streams which shout their way from the mountains of California. They roll with an exulting bound, as if conscious that their pathway was paved with gold.

Wealth of the United States.—The report of the Patent Office, recently made, presents interesting statistics relative to the wealth of the Union. The population of the United States is set down at 20,744 000, and the aggregate of personal and real property estimated at $8,294,570,000. New-York is the richest State, her property being $912,-000 000. Pennsylvania next, $850,000,000, then Ohio, $740,000 000, then Virginia, 508,000,000. The remainder of the States rank as follows: Indiana, $384 000,000; Tennessee, $380 000; Kentucky, $312,000,000; Massachusetts, $340,000,000; Illinois, $594 000,000; Alabama, $276,000,000; Mississippi, 256,000,000; South Carolina, 242,000,000; Missouri, 240,000,000; Maine, $240 000,000; Maryland, $193,000 000; Louisiana, $188,000,000; New-Jersey, $167,000,000; Michigan, $134,000,000; Connecticut, $132,000,000; Vermont, $120,000,000; New-Hampshire, $120,000,000; Arkansas, $60,-000 000; Texas' $56,000,000; Iowa, $52,000,000; Rhode Island, $52 000,000; Wisconsin, 36,000,000; Delaware, $32,000,000; Florida, $30,000,000; District of Columbia, $18,000,000; Oregon, $8,000,000.

Starved to Death.—A family of English people arrived at Cincinnati about four weeks ago, and rented rooms in the fourth ward. A lady in the neighborhood having some suspicion a few days since that all was not right, called on the family and learned the melancholy fact that they were in a starving condition. They had not one morsel of food for three days. The man died the next day, and the wife a few days afterwards. The children, three in number, were adopted by gentlemen in different parts of the city.

Elopements in Rich Life.—A rich widow in Cincinnati has just been done out of a husband. Her family are worth $300,000, and it is no marvel that she had a beau. But she also had a daughter, who was courted by a brother of her lover. The lover of the girl was sent to Texas, where he died, and the young lady to a boarding school. This was done to break up the match. On hearing of the death of her lover, the young lady threatened to retire to a convent; she was, however, persuaded to return home, and then the father that-was-to-be, represented to her what a pity it would be, that such a pretty girl should

"Go to a nunnery to pine away and die."

So she concluded to marry him, and they ran off to-gether. The widow is in hot pursuit of her daughter and the gentleman who was to have married her, but who, it seems, has "found metal more attractive."

(From the Buffalo Com. Adv. Oct. 2)

A MAN OVER THE FALLS!

Neither fiction nor fact furnish an incident of more thrilling interest than one which occurred last evening at the Falls, and is detailed below by our correspondent. There is something terribly appaling, almost sublime in the struggles for life of a strong, self-possessed man, when drawn into the torrent that, with the speed of a race horse, sweeps him onward to certain destruction. A moment scarcely elapses between entire safety and a most fearful death, yet in that moment what a wealth of life may be compressed. How like lightning must flash through the mind, all the pleasant recollections of childhood, the firm resolves of vigorous manhood, the hopes of the future, the endearments of home and friends, repentance for the past errors, and prayers for forgiveness in that dread presence to which he is so awfully summoned!

Niagara Falls, Oct. 2d, 1848.

At about sun-down last evening a man was carried over the Falls. Who he was is not known. From his management of the sail boat in which he came down the river, I think he was not well acquainted with the current or the rapids. His dress and appearance indicated respectability, and after he got into the rapids, his self-possession was most extraordinary. His boat was a very good one—decked over on the bow, and I should think would carry three or four tons. From what I learn of a sail boat having been seen below Black Rock, coming down, I think it is from there or Buffalo. No other than a person unacquainted with the current above the rapids, would venture so near them.

I was on the head of Goat Island when I first discovered the boat—then near half a mile below the foot of Navy Island, and nearly two miles above the Falls. There seemed to be two in the boat. It was directed towards the American shore—the wind blowing from this shore, and still the sail was standing. Being well acquainted with the river, I regarded the position of the boat as extraordinary and hazardous, and watched it with intense anxiety. Soon I discovered the motion of an oar, and from the changing direction of the boat, concluded it had but one. While constantly approaching nearer and nearer the rapids, I could discover it was gaining the American shore, and by the time it had got near the first fall in the rapids, about half a mile above Goat Island, it was directly above the Island. There it was turned up the river, and for some time the wind kept it nearly stationary. The only hope seemed to be to come directly to Goat Island, and whether I should run half a mile to give alarm, or remain to assist, in the event the boat attempted to make the Island, was a question of painful doubt. But soon the boat was again turned towards the American shore. Then it was certain it must go down the American rapids. I ran for the bridge—saw and informed a gentleman and lady just leaving the Island, but they seemed unable to reply or move. I rallied a man at the toll gate—we ran to the main bridge in time to see the boat just before it had got to the first large fall in the rapids. Then I saw but one man—he standing at the stern with his oar, changing the course of the boat down the current, and as it plunged over, he sat down.

I was astonished to see the boat rise with the mast and sail standing, and the man, again erect, directing the boat towards shore. As he came to the next and to each succeeding fall he sat down, and then would rise and apply his oar in the intermediate current.

Still there was hope that he would come near enough to the pier to jump, but in a moment it was gone. Another, that he might jump upon the rock near the bridge, but the current dashed him from it under the bridge, breaking the mast. Again he rose on the opposite side. Taking his oar and pointing his boat towards the main shore, he cried, "had I better jump from the boat?" We could not answer, for either seemed certain destruction. Within a few rods of the Falls, the boat struck a rock—turned over and lodged. He appeared to crawl from under it, and swam with the oar in his hand till he went over the precipice.

Without the power to render any assistance—for half an hour watching a strong man struggle with every nerve for life, yet doomed with almost the certainty of destiny to an immediate and awful death, still hoping with every effort for his deliverance—caused an intensity of excitement I pray God never again to experience.

I write too hurriedly for publication, but I have stated all we have seen or know respecting the man or boat, and from which I hope you will be able to glean so much for publication as will lead to the discovery of the man.

Vancouver's Island has been or is about to be given up to the Hudson's Bay Company by the British Government. One of the reasons given for this by Lord Grey is, in order to prevent the Island from becoming peopled by squatters from the Union, who would before long bring it under the power of the latter. The government it appears has reserved the right of taking back the island, after a lapse of 11 years, for a reasonable compensation.

Statistics of the Potato and Grain Crops in Ireland.—Under the administration of Lord Clarendon, in Ireland, a system has been established for ascertaining with great accuracy, the number of acres planted of all cereal products, and from recent returns to Parliament the following table is compiled:—

	Planted in 1847. Acres.	Planted in 1848. Acres.
Wheat,	743,871	735,000
Oats,	2,200,870	2,187,000
Barley,	332,655	355,537
Rye,	12,415	13,238
Beans,	23 768	25 224
Potatoes,	284,116	1,054,000

From these returns it appears that if but one third of the whole potato crop should be saved in Ireland, there need be no fear of famine prices.—Though there has been this vast increase in the breadth of land planted with the potato, yet in no particular description of grain does there appear to be any material reduction, and the aggregate amount of acres including all descriptions of grain, show a greater breadth of land sown in 1848 than in 1847 by 2,420 acres.
