[FOR THE COURIER.]

INVOCATION TO THE HARP.

Awake thy strings of gladness,
Oh! vibrate on my ear,
And quell the voice of sadness,
That long has linger'd there.
Awake thy tuneful numbers,
Thy sounds are sweet to me,
They rouse a mind that slumbers,
And waken memory.

My soul is dark and heavy,
My heart no longer turns
To scenes of joy; Oh, dimly,
My lamp of life now burns.
All hush'd my youthful dreaming—
All gone the sweet desire,
Ambition's fled, whose gleaming
Has wreck'd my spirit's fire.

Awake once more thy numbers,
A bright companion thou,
Thy magic nought encumbers,
Ye smooth a ruffled brow.
Ye call up scenes all faded
In the mist of by-gone years,
Bright faces earth hath shaded,
The mourner's pearly tears.

Thou canst restore each vision,
Imagination's strong,
It mocks not with derision,
A lonely child of song.
Thy chords hath wondrous feeling,
They'll echo back the strain,
Dejection's plain revealing,
Shall seek thee not in vain.

'Mid wild flowers mildly blooming,
Thy raptures first I knew,
On ocean's waters booming,
I found thy friendship true.
In all my youthful wand'rings
Thou wert with me—on the hills,
And by the soft meand'rings
Of a thousand gushing rills.

Once more before thee kneeling,
I worship at thy shrine,
And though my brain seems reeling,
I feel thour't mine again.
Oh! a welcome to thy melody,
A welcome good and long,
To the harp's undying extacy,
And triumph of its song.

January 20th, 1851.

To the Publishers of the Courier.

GENTLEMEN,—I would like to have the accompanying narrative published in your paper, as it might perchance meet the eye of some of the survivors: if so, being one of the crew myself, I would like to correspond with them. I also beg to return my sincere thanks to Capt. ALEXANDER S. PALMER, for his gentlemanly conduct after our miraculous preservation.

Your's, respectfully,
P. COMERFORD.

LOSS AT SEA OF THE SHIP DOROTHY,

CAPTAIN GARNOCK, FROM LIVERPOOL TO BOMBAY, AND MERCIFUL PRESERVATION OF THE CREW.

(From the Liverpool Standard of 13th Sept., 1833)

It has seldom fallen to our lot to peruse a more interesting account of human suffering or patience than has been presented to us in Captain Garnock's narrative of the loss of the Dorothy, under his command. The Dorothy sailed from this port on the 30th April, and nothing material occurred until the end of June, when she became rather leaky. On Thursday, the 4th of July, she experienced fresh gales from the westward, with squally weather, when she became more leaky; and in the course of the morning, on sounding the pump, twenty-six inches were found in the well. From this time both pumps were kept working without intermission, with the main top-sail close reefed and hauled by the wind; ship's head to the northward, being then (at noon) in latitude 28 deg. 50 sec. south, longitude 21 deg. west. From noon to six o'clock working both pumps without intermission; half the ship's company taking half-an-hour's spell at a time; leak increasing, the water in the hold being nearly up to the upper part of the keelson at six o'clock. At ten p. m. the water in the hold about two feet above the keelson, both pumps constantly working. At this time some hands were set to clear away the long boat, and the carpenter to cut away the starboard stancheons on the main deck. At midnight the water in the hold was about four feet above the keelson, with both pumps continually going; the spell off the pumps doing the extra duty. It then became clear to Captain Garnock that there was no chance of saving the ship; and, in consequence, about one a. m. of Friday, the 5th July, the long boat was got out, by launching her over the gunwale, the stancheons being cut away. Two empty puncheons were put in the boat, which they succeeded in nearly filling with fresh water. Three barrels and two bags of bread were stowed in the boat, together with three top-gallant studding sails, some cordage, and a few small stores. A jolly-boat was also launched; and about three a. m. all hands (twenty-five souls) got into the two boats, hanging by the ship astern, waiting for daylight. At this time the water in the ship's hold was washing over the iron stowed in the main hatch, being about six feet below the beams; the ship filling fast, and straining heavily. The small boat was sent for a compass and some cordage, the water in the ship's hold being then up to her beams. As there was then no doubt that she must shortly go down, the boats cast off from her about eight a. m., and stood to the northward; Mr. Hughes, second mate, and five seamen in the small boat; Captain Garnock, Mr. Smith, mate, and seventeen hands in the long boat.

At noon the ship was in sight, bearing S. S. E., distant about three miles; the boats being then, by observation, in lat. 28 deg. 21 sec. south, and long. 21 deg. 00 sec. west. About one p. m. the Dorothy disappeared altogether, having gone down in lat. 28 deg. 24 sec. south, and long. 21 deg. 00 sec. west. The boats being then both rigged, stood away to the eastward, with fresh breezes from the northward during the night; and on Saturday, the 6th July, continued on their course in company, all well, with fresh breezes and fine weather; having at noon sailed ninety-one miles from the ship, on a course N. 66 deg. E. On Saturday night it came on to blow fresh from N. W. to W. S. W.; boats wet and taking in water: awnings rigged over the boats; and on Sunday forenoon, 7th of July, squally weather came on with rain, when all the spare clothes were hove overboard to lighten the boats; and an account of the provisions taken, which consisted, besides the bread and water, of two small pieces of salt beef, two rounds of beef, two small hams, a few small fish, about six pounds of cheese, a little fat, and a few onions; together with about ten gallons of rum, and fifteen bottles of claret. At noon this day the boats were in lat. 26 deg. 37 sec. south, and long. 18 deg. 37 sec. west. From this day to Tuesday, the 16th of July, the boats kept on their course in company, standing to the northward and north-west, with moderate breezes, variable, and generally clear fine weather, steering for the island of Trinidad, (a small island off the coast of Brazil,) making courses from twenty-three to one hundred and twenty-nine miles in the twenty-four hours; the two or three days having strong breezes, which enabled them to make two hundred and thirty-four miles in forty-eight hours. On Tuesday, the 16th July, they had the good fortune to catch eight small dolphins with the hook and line, which, for want of fire to cook them, were hung in the sun to dry. On Wednesday, the 17th of July, light breezes and clear pleasant weather; being at noon in lat. 20 deg. 59 sec. south, by observation; and long. 27 deg. 47 sec. west. by the chronometer; and Trinidad bearing N. 77 deg. W., distance one ... and thirty-six miles. The boats had then ... and thirty-eight miles from the ... Next to the gratitude that is due to Almighty God for his watchful care of them under such distressing circumstances, they owe it to Captain Palmer, his officers, and crew, for the great kindness with which they treated them on board the Charles Adams, a kindness which will never be obliterated from their memory. Captain Garnock speaks in the highest terms of his officers and ship's company, for their subordination and general good conduct from the commencement to the termination of this severe trial, thus affording a strong evidence of the great advantage resulting from steadiness in a ship's crew when placed in circumstances of difficulty and danger.

The foregoing interesting particulars we have abstracted from the memorandums kept in the boat during this period, with which we have been favoured by Captain Garnock, who arrived here from Pernambuco on the 11th instant, with his mates and apprentices.

Too much praise cannot be given to Captain Garnock for his able and intrepid conduct, when placed in the trying situation in which he found himself at the period of the loss of the Dorothy. It was on that as on all other occasions whilst in the vessel, most unexceptionable. She was, when lost, on her eleventh consecutive voyage to Bombay under his command.

MISCELLANEOUS EXTRACTS.

Mr. Robert Gilfillan, a Scotch poet of some note, and the author of several beautiful songs in the Scottish dialect, died suddenly on the 4th ult. at his residence in Leith. He has held for many years the office of Grand Bard to the Masonic Grand Lodge of Scotland.

Mr. Gilfillan's emigrant song, "Oh why left I my hame," is well known, and may be considered among his best productions. A few hours before his decease, he penned the following hurried lines:

By wintry blasts and ocean waves,
My bark tossed to and fro,
Now quietly rests at anchor, where
Nor storms nor tempests blow.
And when the sea gives up its dead,
And earth's foundation's riven,
I hope, through Christ to make good sail,
Swift for the Port of Heaven.

NEW ELECTRO-CHEMICAL TELEGRAPH.—Recent and wonderful improvements in the transmission of messages by the electric telegraph, have recently been exhibited in France. The instrument is the invention of Mr. Bain, is called an electro-chemical telegraph, and conveys its messages in the very handwriting of the persons who send them! It claims to have great advantages over the electro-magnetic telegraphs in general use. While the latter transmit despatches at an average rate of eight words per minute for each conducting wire, this new invention can transmit from 250 to 400 words per minute. A committee of the French Legislative Assembly, at the head of which was the celebrated astronomer Le Verrier, was appointed to investigate the merits of this invention. They caused the experiments to be repeated in their presence. A message consisting of several thousand words was transmitted to Lille and back, along a single wire (the wire being united at Lille so as to carry back the message), at the rate of about 1500 letters, or nearly 400 telegraphic words per minute. The committee reported favorably of the project, and the Government ordered a set of apparatus to be constructed, to be placed in the first instance on the line between Paris and Calais. This line was completed in the early part of the last month, and their performance was witnessed by the correspondent of a London journal, from whose account of the discovery we gather our information. His own despatch, which would occupy about a column of the Atlas, was transmitted and written by the apparatus in his presence, at the rate of 1200 letters per minute. The characters were perfectly distinct and legible, and the despatch was read from them also in his presence.—Boston Atlas.

SHARP SHOOTING.—It is stated (says the correspondent of the Morning Chronicle,) that Sir Charles Napier was no longer on speaking terms with the Marquis of Dalhousie. The Lahore Chronicle of the 26th ult. says—"On the return of the Governor General from Chenee, Sir Charles Napier desired one of his Aides de Camp to write to an officer on the staff of the Marquis of Dalhousie holding a similar post, and ask whether his Lordship had any business to transact with the Commander-in-Chief, and if so, requesting him to name the place and hour for transacting it.' The Aide-de-Camp of the Governor-General was instructed to state in reply, 'that his Lordship had no business at present to transact with the Commander-in-Chief, but that, when he had, he should not fail to make the time and place convenient to himself.' Matters have gone so far, that an officer on his Excellency's Staff, whose name has been recently prominently before the public, considered himself 'obliged,' under existing circumstances, to decline an invitation to dine at Government House.'

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—In this age of "reform," when the privilege of wearing "the bifurcated garment" is coveted by certain of the gentler sex, it may be well for woman to know her legal rights, that she may be prepared to maintain them. An English paper publishes the following paragraph:

"A curious trial was recently held at Middlesex Sessions. Thomas Saverland, the prosecutor, stated that he was in the tap room where the defendant, Caroline Newton, and her sister, who had come from Birmingham, were present. The latter jokingly observed that she had promised her sweet heart that no man should kiss her while absent. It being holiday time, Saverland considered this a challenge, and caught hold of her and kissed her.—The young woman took it as a joke, but her sister, the defendant, said she would like as little of that kind of fun as he pleased. Saverland told her if she was angry, he would kiss her also; he then tried to do it, and they fell to the ground. On rising, the woman struck him: he again tried to kiss her, and in the scuffle she bit off his nose, which she spit out of her mouth. The action was brought to recover damages for the loss of the nose. The defendant said he had no business to kiss her, if she wanted kissing, she had a husband to kiss her, a better looking man than ever the prosecutor was. The jury, without hesitation, acquitted her; and the chairman said, that if any man attempted to kiss a woman against her will, she had a right to bite off his nose, if she had a fancy for so doing!"

NOVEL CASE.—In Gloucester, on Tuesday, John Davis obtained a judgment of $9 and costs against David Chandlor and wife, the damage being that the latter had made certain dresses belonging to the plaintiff's wife and daughters in an unworkmanlike manner. The evidence was ...; the dresses would not fit, and some parts ... m were put together wrong side out.

THIS preparation has now been before the public nearly twenty years. Its great intrinsic merits have steadily advanced the sale and use of it, and it now enjoys a prominent position in the public favour.

The unexampled success which has attended its administration in every case where the patient was really afflicted with Worms, and the fact, that it is not a 'nostrum' or 'cure all' but a specific for one disease only, certainly renders it worthy of the attention of Physicians; a great many of whom having seen in the course of their practice the good and remarkable effects resulting from its use, have had the magnanimity to surrender their professional scruples and prescribe it as the best remedy known.

Every Druggist or Physician who has had any curiosity to enquire into cases where the Vermifuge has been made use of, can furnish abundant evidence of its efficacy in expelling Worms, and the good effect produced on the general health of the patient.

It is mild in its operation, contains no calomel nor other dangerous ingredient, and can be given with perfect safety to the most delicate infant.

St. Andrews, Province of New-Brunswick, October 18th, 1845.

I, Michael Croney, aged 55 years, hereby certify, that for three years previous to May, 1844, I was afflicted with worms, so as to be completely prostrate in strength, and unable to labor, during which time I was constantly under the hands of a physician, with little effect; that, at the time mentioned, I was induced to try one bottle of B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge, which produced such extraordinary effects that I was at once relieved from all the pains and spasms I was before afflicted with, and in one week I was restored so as to be enabled to resume my labor; and up to the present time, have enjoyed uninterrupted good health. MICHAEL CRONEY.

TAPE WORMS,

And other worms in ADULTS, can be removed by the administration of

B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge.

The following are but a few of hundreds of those cases where it has effected a cure.

East Brooklyn, L. I. Feb. 10th, 1847.

This is to certify, that I took three vials of B. A. Fahnestock's Vermifuge, which had the effect to bring away fifteen yards of tape worm and a number of smaller worms. I would, therefore, recommend this medicine to the public as a safe and speedy cure for worms.
