

The Mayor and Common Council in 1851, fell short of friendship and wise counsel even to the time when the annual meeting of 1852 took place. At that time the Mayor, John H. Gray, was elected. The Corporation was enabled, from the increase of other sources of revenue, to pay the Bondholders five per cent a year, a poor equivalent for the loss they had sustained in the year.

As proof of the continued increase in the value of Corporation Lands, the Committee state, that in H. Gray, in a very neat and eloquent speech, he pointed out the fact that the result of the sale of the lands, which had been purchased by the Corporation, was a large increase in the value of the lands.

We are pleased to find, by notices posted next to this considering the property of opening up the lands, that the Corporation has not only succeeded in its purpose, but that the lands are now being sold at a profit.
