DR. FONTAINE'S
Balm of a Thousand Flowers,
For the Toilet, the Nursery, for Bathing and many Medicinal purposes;

HIGHLY perfumed by its own ingredients: recommended by the Faculty of almost every European city, and established under the patronage of almost every Physician in London and Paris, and thousands of individuals, who make daily use of it in New-York, Philadelphia and Boston. It is the greatest luxury a lady or gentleman could wish for the improvement of health, for comfort and personal embellishment, and its delicate soothing sensation, and the delightful softness it imparts to the complexion.

We give a few of the prominent properties of the already well established by actual experience.

FIRST:

This Balm remedies every defect of the complexion, and establishes in its stead Beauty and Health, at the time when both, by the changes of age, or freaks of nature, or disease, have been obscured or undermined—it cleanses the skin, and draws to the surface all impurities, and every species of pimples and blotches; also removes tan, sunburns, sallowness, and freckles, imparting to the skin its original purity, and an unsurpassed freshness, rendering it clear, smooth, and white.

SECOND:

It promotes the growth and increase of the Hair—causing it to curl in the most natural manner.

It cleanses the head from dandruff, giving vigor, health and life to the very roots of the hair.

THIRD:

It is a superior article for Shaving, being superior to all descriptions of Soaps, Creams, Pastes, &c.

As a Dentrifice for Cleansing the Teeth, it is by far the most medicinal of any compound yet discovered, preventing decay, relieving pain, ulcers and cankers, and renders the teeth white as alabaster. For bathing, for suffering infants, and for adults, to promote sweetness of body, cleanliness, health and strength, and to prevent eruptions, &c., there is no article more suitable than this BALM. It may be used in cold or warm, hard or soft water.

The Road to Health!
HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

CURE OF A DISORDERED LIVER AND BAD DIGESTION.

Copy of a Letter from Mr. R. W. Kirkus, Chemist, 7, Prescot Street, Liverpool, dated 6th June, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

Sir,—Your Pills and Ointment have stood the highest on our sale list of Proprietary Medicines for some years. A customer, to whom I can refer for any enquiries, desires me to let you know the particulars of her case. She had been troubled for years with a disordered liver, and bad digestion. On the last occasion, however, the virulence of the attack was so alarming, and the inflammation set in so severely, that doubts were entertained of her not being able to bear up under it; fortunately, she was induced to try your Pills, and she informs me that after the first, and each succeeding dose, she had great relief. She continued to take them, and although she used only three boxes, she is now in the enjoyment of perfect health. I could have sent you many more cases, but the above, from the severity of the attack, and the speedy cure, I think speaks much in favour of your astonishing Pills. (Signed) R. W. KIRKUS.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF RHEUMATIC FEVER, IN VAN DIEMAN'S LAND.

Copy of a Letter inserted in the "Hobart Town Courier," of 1st March, 1851, by Major J. Walch.

Margaret M'Connigan, nineteen years of age, residing at New Town, had been suffering from a violent rheumatic fever for upwards of two months, which had entirely deprived her of the use of her limbs. During this period she was under the care of the most eminent medical men in Hobart Town, and by them her case was considered hopeless. A friend prevailed upon her to try Holloway's celebrated Pills, which she consented to do, and in an incredible short space of time they effected perfect cure.

CURE OF A PAIN AND TIGHTNESS IN THE CHEST AND STOMACH OF A PERSON 84 YEARS OF AGE.

From Messrs. Thew & Son, Proprietors of the "Lynn Advertiser," who can vouch for the following statement.—August 2nd, 1851.

To Professor HOLLOWAY.

Sir,—I desire to bear testimony to the good effects of Holloway's Pills. For some years I suffered severely from a pain and tightness in the stomach, which was also accompanied by a shortness of breath, that prevented me from walking about. I am 84 years of age; and notwithstanding my advanced state of life, these Pills have so relieved me, that I am desirous that others should be made acquainted with their virtues. I am now rendered by their means comparatively active, and can take exercise without inconvenience or pain, which I could not do before. (Signed) HENRY COE, North Street, Lynn, Norfolk.

AN EXTRAORDINARY CURE OF THE GRAVEL, AND A MOST DANGEROUS LIVER COMPLAINT.

Copy of a Letter addressed to J. K. Heydon, Esq., Sydney, New South Wales, dated Feb. 25, 1851.

Sir,—A Mr. Thomas Clark, a Settler at Lake George, was for a considerable time seriously afflicted with a complaint of the Liver, together with the Gravel. His medical attendants, after trying all their skill, candidly told him that his case was hopeless, and any further efforts useless. In this situation, and when expecting every day would terminate his existence, a friend recommended him to try Holloway's Pills, and as a forlorn hope he did so; the first dose gave him considerable relief, he therefore persevered in taking them according to the directions, and is now restored to perfect health. He will feel great pleasure in confirming this statement, or even make an affidavit to the same effect, should it be required. (Signed) WM. JONES, Proprietor of the Goulburn Herald, New South Wales.

MISCELLANEOUS SELECTIONS.

OPENING OF THE STRASBOURG RAILWAY.—In concluding a notice of this event, the Liverpool Journal remarks:—

The opening of the railway was, however, an event which originated in and refers to social advancement at enmity with despotism; and the Bishop of Strasbourg, in blessing the railway and the locomotives, uttered words of Christian philosophy and deep political meaning. "Let us not suppose," said the prelate, "that Providence remains indifferent to that prodigious development of modern industry—to those astonishing discoveries which genius the most vast and the boldest never would have dared to foresee fifty years ago. Let us not suppose that the wise and bountiful Creator will not cause that ardour for material interests which agitates the world in our day to serve the cause of truth. If distance be annihilated by industry—if the barriers that time and space oppose to its creations be broken, it also opens a way more rapid and more large to the Divine precepts of the Gospel: it causes frontiers to disappear; it destroys the limits that separate nations, in order to make of them but one and the same family, united in charity and in the practice of Christian virtues." The good bishop traced to increase of knowledge and the Roman roads the rapid progress of Christianity; and we can excuse the solecism when he ascribes the same merit to the presence of ALEXANDER THE GREAT on the Euphrates.

This fortunate country presents a happy contrast to that of France. Our beloved Queen takes her summer excursion on an element which Britain rules; and, although there is no absence of fitting pomp and dignified ceremonial, there is no significant announcement that, being well received, her Majesty trusted her person to the people. Where despotism governs, royalty moves within a circle of bayonets; where constitutional liberty prevails, the soldiers retire and the subjects approach. Respect and love for the Sovereign is here a thing of course in appearance; in reality, a hearty, living sentiment, which identifies the good and gracious lady enjoying the coast scenery of her kingdom with the glory and happiness of the state. The Sovereign and the people are without jealousy, suspicion, or fears.

A UNIFORM COINAGE.—A letter from Vienna, of the 17th, says:—Several European powers have accepted the proposition of the English Government to convoke a congress at London, in order to come to an agreement respecting the regulating of the coin. France, Denmark, Sweden, Spain and Portugal have been specially nominated. The invitations have been ulteriorly addressed to the States of Germany. The congress will not commence its deliberations till November next; meanwhile a statistical bureau will be established, for the purpose of making the necessary preparations.

A Parliamentary paper, recently printed, contains a further report from Sir Robert Kane, the Director of the Museum of Irish Industry, on M. Claussen's invention for the production of flax cotton. Without being understood to announce a positive conclusion, which in a report of progress would be premature, Sir Robert states that he is pretty well satisfied that M. Claussen's process does not at all produce a material approaching in structure or organic quality to cotton.

The unusual occurrence of three officers resigning their commissions in the Royal Artillery took place in last week's Gazette, and these, it is stated, will be followed by several others. The United Service Gazette states that while the motives are various for adopting such an alternative, bill transactions, gambling, and other demoralising habits have led to the fatal result in some of these instances.

Sir James Macadam, the originator of the modern system of "Macadamizing" roads, died recently at London.

SIR JAMES GRAHAM ON REFORM.—"I am," said Sir James, at Carlisle, "neither a Derbyite nor a Russellite, but my object is to be the independent member of the electors of Carlisle; and in the House of Commons, without being fettered to any party, I shall exercise an independent judgment on the questions as they arise. This brings me to the question of reform. I was of opinion that the extension of the franchise, as settled in 1832, was so large and extensive that it might have lasted my time. But I am now clearly of opinion, since her Majesty has announced from the throne that a revision of the Reform Act of 1832 is necessary, since Lord John Russell himself has acknowledged that there are great imperfections in that measure, I also am of opinion that a revision of that act is indispensable. Then, it is said, what is the extension of the franchise which you will support? I tell you I was not satisfied—being no Russellite—with the Reform Bill introduced by the late Whig government. It sinned in one particular. It sinned in not recurring to the principles of the act of 1832, which were the disfranchisement of small rotten boroughs, and the extension of the franchise to large and populous cities. I think, if we are to revise the Reform Act, we must begin where we left off. We must look for the decayed boroughs, which ought now to be disfranchised, and we must transfer the representation to those large and intelligent communities which do not now enjoy that privilege. With regard to the amount of the franchise in cities and boroughs, I have no hesitation in saying, that the old English franchise of residence and rating appears to be the most legitimate basis of the franchise."

Lord Derby's Foresight: Threatening to Swallow a Transatlantic Steam Boiler.—The Hon. R. Watson, the new member for Peterborough, asserted, last week, that the Premier was not a man of foresight, as was proved by an anecdote which the honourable member related. Twenty-seven years ago a committee of the House of Commons was appointed to examine into the state of steam navigation. Lord Stanley was chairman of that committee, and on Mr. Stephenson, the eminent engineer, speaking of the probability of steam-ships crossing the Atlantic, Lord Stanley rose from his seat and exclaimed, "Good Heavens! what do you say? If steam-ships cross the Atlantic, I will eat the boiler of the first boat!"

Death of "John Doe and Richard Roe."—On the 24th Oct. next these celebrated characters will legally cease to exist. Writs in future are to be rational documents.

The following testimony of Mr. Depeyster, one of the passengers on board the Henry Clay, indicates the fatal mistake made by the officers of the boat after the calamity had became apparent:—

The great fault was in the officers saying there was no danger when there really was danger. If they had told us there was a passage to the hurricane deck, and if proper appliances had been made by the officers, I believe all on board would have been saved. This I firmly believe. I saw no person that I know as an officer, or acting as an officer, doing anything whatever to aid or counsel as to the conduct of the vessel or those on board. I know none of the officers on board. I only saw the smoke when I got upon the hurricane deck. I relied upon the officers to warn us of danger.

Mr. Radford, one of the owners of the Henry Clay, in his examination before the coroner's jury, made a detailed statement of facts relating to the case, in which he said that a special bargain had been entered into between the captain of the Armenia and the owners of the Henry Clay, that the two boats should not race, and that the Armenia should follow the Henry Clay, both up and down the river. He said that the Henry Clay could run twenty-two miles per hour; but on the day of the disaster, she had only run seventeen or eighteen. The public will never believe that the Henry Clay was not racing on the day of the disaster, or that she was not under an unusual pressure of steam.

It is suggested that the spot where the boat was run ashore should be purchased, and a column erected that might not only commemorate the loss of the wretched victims, but serve as a beacon and a warning to all steamboat officers, of the awful results of steamboat racing. It would seem as though a monument of the kind, seen thus daily from every boat, would keep the recollection of the catastrophe fresh in every memory, and prevent the recurrence of anything of a similar nature.—Boston Journal.

A PRAYER.—The Chaplain in the Indiana Legislature recently opened the session with a general prayer, which he closed with the following invocation:—"And the Lord have mercy on our legislators. Spare their lives until they return to their homes, and then put it into the hearts of the people to keep them there, and return men of temperate habits and sentiments who will do some good."
