State, wherein those differences consist; I hope to do so in a few d[illegible]s.

In the me[illegible]me, it will be desirable that the commanders of [illegible]United States cruisers should be instructed not to repeat acts for which the British Government will have to ask for redress, and which the United States Government cannot undertake to justify.

You will read and give a copy of this despatch to the Secretary of State. I am, &c.,

(Signed) RUSSELL.

The foregoing despatch is short and to the point. Lord Russell confines himself to what "Captain Wilkes had done," Mr. Seward expatiated on "what he might have done" without violating the law of nations: here is an important distinction.

The concluding despatch must have been highly gratifying to Lord Lyons, and it will be read with satisfaction by all British subjects, and even we think by all candid Americans.

Earl Russell to Lord Lyons.

FOREIGN OFFICE, Jan. 11.

My Lord: Your conduct in the important matter of the Trent is entirely approved of by Her Majesty. The discretion and good temper you have shown have contributed greatly to the success of our operations.

In order to give your lordship, by a public document, a proof that you have acted strictly according to the instructions you have received, I enclose an extract, annexed to this dispatch, of a private letter I addressed to you on the 1st of December last. I am, &c. (Signed) RUSSELL.

(Enclosure.)

[Extract from a private letter from Earl Russell to Lord Lyons, Dec. 1, 1861.]

"The dispatches that were agreed to at the Cabinet of yesterday morning, and which I have signed this morning, imposes upon you a disagreeable task. My wish would be that, at your first interview with Mr. Seward, you should not take my dispatch with you, but should prepare him for it, and ask him to settle with the President and the Cabinet what course they would propose.

The next time you should bring my dispatch, and read it to them fully.

If he asks what will be the consequence of his refusing compliance, I think you should say that you wish to leave him and the President quite free to take their own course, and that you desire to abstain from anything like menace."

It is evident from an allusion in Lord Russell's despatch that he did not relish the tone in which Mr. Adams referred to English diplomacy on the subject of the rights of neutrals, but probably the gossiping London paper referred to in the following paragraph does not render full justice to Mr Adams, who is represented as being a very polite and accomplished minister:

"The London Morning Advertiser understands that the demeanor of Mr. Adams to Earl Russell, on reading Mr. Seward's letter, was not of such a nature as to invest the interview with any conciliatory aspect. His bearing was wanting in good breeding. It was deficient in those gentlemanly attributes which prevail in polished society. There was something approaching to rudeness in his remark at the close of his interview with Earl Russell, that the French Government had always been consistent in their maintenance of the rights of neutrals, but that 'he could not pay the same compliment to the British Government.' Lord Russell's answer to this was at once dignified and severe in its rebuke. 'I will,' said the noble Lord, 'dispense with compliments, if this matter can be amicably arranged.'"

The matter has been "amicably settled," and long may friendly relations exist between England and America.

TEMPERANCE MEETINGS.—On Tuesday, at 3 o'clock, the Rev. Mr. Clay addressed quite a large number of the military on the effects of Alcohol on the human system. O. D. Wetmore, Esq., G. W. P., occupied the chair. On the platform we noticed several of the officers and members of the Grand Division.

The Chairman regretted the absence of the Scots Fusileer Guards, and attributed it to a misunderstanding as to which meeting they were expected to attend, as Col. Dalrymple had expressed his willingness to co-operate with the Committee in any way they might decide upon, nay more, thanked them most kindly for the invitation which had been extended to the men under his command.

Dr. Clay, in his opening remarks, hit off some very amusing remarks, which showed a Temperance Lecture was not so dry as they might suppose; and throughout his very interesting and instructive address the same undercurrent of fun would now and [illegible]burst out, calling forth the plaudits of the [illegible]e, especially the military portion. [illegible]llustrating his ideas and remarks on the organs [illegible] the system, the lecturer was assisted by some excellent diagrams, and if some of the rum drinkers of our city would only take a look at the diseased state gin and rum drinking will reduce their livers to, we almost imagine they would cease this body and soul destroying habit.

We were pleased to see quite a large number of our citizens present, and the deep attention the lecture was listened to indicated that it was appreciated. At the conclusion three cheers were given for the Queen, and at the suggestion of a gentleman on the platform, "another one."

On Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, according to announcement, a public Temperance Meeting was held in the same place, under the auspices of the Grand Division. The G. W. P. occupied the chair, and opened the meeting in a neat and appropriate speech, after which he introduced the Rev. N. McKay. As this was that gentleman's first appearance on the platform as a temperance orator, we were anxious to know what stand he took, and what views he held on this important question; but ere five minutes elapsed, we could congratulate the temperance body on a fearless and able advocate of Total Abstinence. Down with the traffic — death to the monster in every shape and form, was his motto. Mr. McKay treated the subject logically and eloquently, handling it without gloves, and using powerful arguments for the immediate suppression of this vice-producing traffic. His remarks were well received, judging from the profound attention with which they were listened to.

Next came Rev. Mr. Narraway, a valiant and faithful advocate of those Total Abstinence principles which, we are happy to say, are on the increase in our Province—no doubt in a great measure owing to his and like Temperance "Apostle's" efforts; for where is the hamlet or village in our Province or the next where Mr. Narraway has not lectured, and if there are such villages, we would advise you in all faithfulness have him there at the earliest possible moment, and we will guarantee a good Temperance Lecture at the least.

Mr. Skinner was next called upon, but declined making any lengthened remarks at that late hour.

The Rev. T. B. Smith was the last speaker, and closed the evening's entertainment, in an elegant and chaste speech, reviewing what had been said, and making an excellent "application" of the many truths which had been adduced by the various speakers.

There was some excellent singing, led by Mr. John R. Marshall. Mr. Atkins presided at the organ, with his usual ability. We need scarcely add it was quite a pleasant meeting, and we trust useful. We hope Temperance men and women will not relax their exertions in this noble cause at this important crisis, and that their labours of love may be crowned with complete success should be the desire of every true philanthropist.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.—[illegible]ay evening, Mr. W. R. Lomax, C.E., lectur[illegible]nt and modern weapons of war." The le[illegible] himself solely to the consideration of projecti[illegible] the laws which govern them. The steam gun seemed to be his favorite: he stated he had no doubt but steam would supersede gunpowder, and that it was by no means as dange[illegible] having seen [illegible] tested. His description of the Armstrong gun was very graphic: he also explained certain valuable improvements he had made in cannon about the beginning of the Russian war, including breech loading, which was tested in Woolwich in presence of the Duke of Newcastle, and proved a com[illegible] success. The lecturer exhibited several dia[illegible] illustrative of the improvements which he brought to the notice of his audience. It was quite evident that Mr. Lomax was troubled with a severe cold, his voice being quite indistinct at times; the lecturer seemed to be quite master of his subject, though occasionally rather confused. We have no doubt he would have done much better had he read his lecture. We trust to have the pleasure of hearing Mr. Lomax lecture again on some future occasion.

The Hon. John H. Gray will lecture next Monday evening. Subject—"The Gulf Stream."

PORTLAND LECTURES.—Mr. C. H. Skinner lectured in Portland on Tuesday evening last, on the 'Crusades.' The lecturer drew a sketch of the events that attracted the attention of the world to Jerusalem; then traced the rise and progress of Mahommedanism, and described the causes that led to the crusades. After giving a rapid sketch of each crusade, numbering nine in all, he closed with some remarks of their effects on the world. The lecture occupied about an hour in its delivery, and was listened to with much attention by a large and respectable audience.

On next Tuesday evening Mr. John Boyd will lecture in the same place, on "What are the wild waves saying."

W[illegible]ould advise that "man" who had to do with the ar[illegible]le in the Presbyterian of yesterday, marked with three stars, to keep his incivilities in future to himself. If he possessed one half as much common sense as he does egotism and vanity, he would keep a little more in the back ground. But we warrant him that if he is determined upon a tilt with the publisher of this paper, he shall have it to his heart's content. If the mask must be torn aside then here's for it!—News.

The News has ever pursued this course, and done much—very much—to degrade journalism in this Province. Whenever worsted in argument, or shown to be in the wrong, it invariably turns round on somebody—as often the wrong man as the right one—and gives him a sound blackguarding, thereby proving, most effectually, its want of ability to answer in any other way, and confessing its own weakness.—Colonial Empire.

SOMETHING FOR OUR LOYALTY.—We learn from the Courier that a statue of the Queen, costing from $6000 to $8000, is to be erected at Montreal, C. E.. The funds are to be raised by $1 subscriptions. Who will start a similar project in St. John! Let us have a statue to her Majesty placed in the Market Square, or in one of the other public squares. The funds would be subscribed we think. Who will open the books? Where is Mr. Betts?—News.

But what about the poor! only think of the number of poor people in Montreal who might be fed and clothed with these $8,000. It is quite appalling to hear of extending such a project to this city, in which the poor are so numerous, and so ill cared for. No! no! Let us forget all antiquated ideas of hospitality and loyalty, and get up $1 subscription for the poor. Who will open the books? ***

We have been waiting for an opportunity of noticing at length, the REV. GEORGE SUTHERLAND's book on the Geography, and Natural and Civil History of PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND. It is designed for schools, and is remarkable for its excellent arrangement, and the research and accuracy which it displays. The most recent Legislative action, and indeed, all facts of interest in relation to the Island are fully stated. A similar work on New Brunswick would supply a great want. The Charlottetown publisher has well seconded the labours of the author.

We are informed that the name of the Rev. Mr. Wilson, Wesleyan Minister, Oak Bay, is William and not Robert, as was erroneously stated in our last issue.

Principal CUNNINGHAM bequeathed his papers to the New College, Edinburgh. His lectures will be published under the care of two of the Professors.

Our city subscribers, who do not subscribe to Blackwood, ought to call at M'MILLAN's or BARNES & Co's. Bookstores and buy the January number. We have given the gist of one of its articles, but, after all, our view is meagre and imperfect. There is a slashing article on "The Convulsions of America." It is all against the Federal Government. The article on the "Prince Consort" is one of the most touching tributes that has yet been paid to the memory of Prince Albert. There are several other fine articles and papers in this number, one of which, "The Nation's Prayer," is quoted in our present issue.

We have received from JAMES J. KAYE, Esq., the Agent for New Brunswick, a copy of the "Royal Insurance Almanack," which deserves special notice. In point of beauty it is quite a gem, and as regards utility, it is full of the most valuable information. We have a list of the ministers of the Crown, of members of Parliament, with the respective populations of the cities or counties, represented as ascertained in 1851 and 1861. We have a minute chronicle of the Garibaldi expedition, full details of the new French tariff, and [illegible] account of French monies, lengths and measures. We have fine illustrations of the Offices of this great Fire and Life Insurance Company (with its capital of five millions sterling), in London, Liverpool, Manchester, Glasgow, Dublin, Toronto, and Montreal, the last mentioned being the most beautiful of them all.

Letters from Rev. Isaac Murray and Rev. James Bayne received.

Messrs. Hardy & Bridges drive an excellent stage. See advertisement.

EXHIBITION IN LONDON.

MR. EDITOR—I noticed in the Morning News lately a few remarks upon the subject of the coming Exhibition in London, and the necessity for a judicious selection of a person to attend with our articles. Now, I fully [illegible]ree with the News, that it is necessary to have a[illegible] in the building, and an artistic arrange[illegible]. We saw the lamentable lack of systematic [illegible]nt at our Sussex affair, and the cruel results [illegible] thereby. But when we send a representation [illegible] New Brunswick, we want something more than a mere janitor curator. As to saying we must have a person who will know how to arrange everything is absurd. For instance, what would the Engineer, who could exhibit Messrs. Fleming & Humbert's products with skill and eclat, know concerning Mr. Potter's mirror, Mr. Spiller's tools or Mr. Richardson's saws; &c. &c., and vice versa. Doubtless, each apartment at home will have its proper person in charge, so that a Picture Gallery will not be like unto a cupboard in which good and bad, big and little, are promiscuously jumbled—the best almost out of sight! What we do want is a person who can take his place respectably among the representatives of other countries; can represent New Brunswick intellectually and socially, while the exhibition of our resources will represent us materially, and who shall have such moral power and address as shall ensure for our exhibition a judicious, systematic, and impartial arrangement. These are my views sir, and I do hope the person selected, from whatever rank of life, whether mechanical or professional, agricultural or artistical, will be one of whom we shall have reason to be proud when he takes his place among the representatives even of greater, older, and richer peoples.

Yours, &c., A NEW BRUNSWICKER.

[To the Editor of the Colonial Presbyterian.]

DEAR SIR—Your articles on sectarian grants express the mind of many. They are not made on any sound principle, but are merely bribes for political support. This I can prove. If they are based on any wise principle, why do not all receive an equal share? But I am entirely opposed to separate sc[illegible] po[illegible] country[illegible] sects? It not[illegible] Roman Catholic s[illegible]

But it crowns a[illegible] tha[illegible] £1200 a year is lev[illegible] Protestants[illegible] Licence fees, that Roman Catholics [illegible] it, and yet that the Government hands over money for their separate schools. This is rich. Th[illegible] is Protestant equality. This is fair, and just, and honorable, of course. It is all right, I suppose, if the people think so.

I am, Sir, ONE OF THE PEOPLE.

THE AMERICAN CIVIL WAR.

The news is not important. It is clear that North Carolina is the field of operations of the Burnside expedition, but as yet no great results have been accomplished. In Missouri little new.

It is said that the Kansas troops have thus far freed about 3,000 slaves, 95 per cent. of whom are already earning an honest living in Kansas or with the army. Price with some 14,000 men, 24 guns, and sufficient supplies is at Springfield, and McCulloch, with nearly as many, is said to be just beyond the Arkansas line. They are not likely to advance, nor wait for an advance, unless by an inferior force!—A sharp correspondence has passed between Halleck and Price, substantially thus: Price to Halleck: "Are you going to treat the men whom I send to destroy bridges and railroads as criminals?" Halleck to Price: "Yes, I am, if they appear in the garb of citizens and away up there in Northern Missouri, and punish them by court-martial. But if they come as soldiers, I will kill them or take them as such."

In Kentucky the Federal victory is proved to have even more decisive than at first appeared. On the Potomac nothing new. A New York paper says that the good common sense with which the rebels conduct the war is shown in the creditable report that they have twelve regiments of negroes at Manasses, who are to have $8 a month each. They would be fools not to fight for the South on such terms.

The Independent says:—

At Hilton Head the leading achievements of Gen. Sherman have been the banishment of a reporter who had offended him, and the delivery of a fugitive slave to his master; but even these great deeds have not yet decided the war in that quarter.—There are reports, not yet to be believed, however, of the discovery of a new water route by which Savannah can be attacked without coming in [illegible]ange of Pulaski; and even of the consequent evacu[illegible]on of that post, and of meetings in Savannah to consider a peaceful sur[illegible]ender of the city.—The gathering of cotton still continues; about $1,000,000 worth is ready to send away, and about a quarter as much has been sent.—And a second fleet of stone ships has been sent and sunk in Maffitt's Channel, at Charleston, where the Ella Warley ran in a few days ago.

BANGOR, Feb. 1st.

Thirteen Federal vessels reported got in rear of Fort Pulaski. Tatnall's Confederate flotilla escaped to Savannah. Fort Pulaski is said to be provisioned for six months.—Federals removing obstructions in River.—Savannah comparatively quiet.

No immediate attack anticipated and people confident they can defend the city.

A Richmond despatch thinks its capture quite unimportant.

From 25 to 30 Gunboats are reported in Pamlico Sound.

The people of Elizabeth City, Enisto, &c., are sending away women and children.

15,000 Federal troops crossed Green River, Kentucky, 25th.

14 Stone vessels are reported sunk in Maffit's Channel, Charleston, last Saturday.

Another Southern Expedition is reported on foot. Gen Hentzleman is to command.

BANGOR, Feb. 1st.

Private letters received at Washington from persons abroad intimate that England, France, and Spain meditate an early recog[illegible]tion of the Southern Confederacy in the pretended [illegible]use of humanity.

Deserters represent that t[illegible]enlistment of 80,000 Confederates at Manassas expires at the end of January; that few will re-enlist and coercion will be resisted.

A Richmond despatch admits that 250,000 Confederates are in the field.

It is said that President Davis will take command at Manassas in Beauregard's absence.

Burnside's troops are in good health. Most of the fleet started for Roanoke Island which was first to be attacked.

BANGOR, Feb. 4.

Twelve steamers laden with troops left Cairo yesterday to join larger forces at another point, indicating genuine active movement.

General Curtis is concentrating his forces at Rolla, Missouri.

The New York Times Washington despatch states that Gen. Chairman in Liverpool.—CHARLES TURNER, Esq.

The Royal Insurance Company is one of the largest Fire Offices in the kingdom.

At the Annual Meeting held in August 1859, the following highly satisfactory results were shown:—

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The most gratifying proof of the expansion of the business is exhibited in the one following fact—that the increase alone of the last three years exceeds the entire business of some of the existing and of many of the recently defunct fire insurance companies of this kingdom.

The Premiums for the year 1855 being........£130,060
While the Premiums for the year 1558 are.... 196,148
Showing an actual increase of................ 66,088 or upwards of 50 per cent. in three years.

The recent returns of duty made by Government for this latter year (1858) again show the "Royal" as more than maintaining the ratio of its increase as stated in former years. Only one among the London insurance offices exhibits an advance to the extent of one-half the increase of the Company, while all the others respectively fall far short of the moiety of its advance.

LIFE DEPARTMENT.

The amount of new Life Premiums received this year is by far the largest received in any similar period since the commencement of the business, and must far exceed the average of amount received by the most successful offices in the kingdom. The number of policies issued in the year was 832, the sum assured £387,752 6s. 8d., and the premium £12,354 3s. 4d. These figures show a very rapid extension of business during the last ten years. Thus:—

Years.	No. of Policies.	Sums Assured.	New Premiums.
1848	.. 98	£48,764 17 0	£1,380 9 1
1850	.. 190	95,650 9 11	2,627 4 [illegible]
1852	.. 422	181,504 10 6	5,828 5 10
1854	.. 408	161,848 13 4	4,694 16 0
1856	.. 703	297,560 16 8	8,850 3 11
1858	.. 832	387,752 6 8	12,354 3 4

The remarkable increase in the business of the last four years is mainly consequent upon the large bonus declared in 1855, which amounted to no less than £2 per cent. per annum on the sums assured, and averaged 80 per cent. upon the premiums paid.

EXPLOSIVE, HAZARDOUS, AND EXTRA HAZARDOUS!

THE leading Fire Insurance Companies of the United States have declared Petroleum Oil, Well Oils, Earth Oils, and sundry other Oils, as highly dangerous, liable to explode, Hazardous, and Extra Hazardous.

Of all Illuminating Oils, ALBERTINE OIL is pre-eminently the best; it burns longer, gives a steadier light, and more light for less money, than any other Oil.

Albertine Oil is perfectly safe in use, and in this respect unlike many other Oils with numerous names, which are highly dangerous, explode in the lamp, set fire to persons and property—several instances of which have occurred in this vicinity within the past few weeks.

The Albertine Oil Company are now prepared to fill all orders at wholesale and retail, for their Genuine Albertine OIL, pure and unadulterated, from the celebrated Albert Coal. JOHN McGRATH, Agent,
