

Great Musician Charms Audience

Marcel Dupre With Exquisite Skill Interprets the Old Masters and His Own Compositions.

The packed aisles, with people standing, was the welcome accorded Marcel Dupre, at Centenary Church last evening, and throughout his exquisite program there was an appreciative silence that bespoke an intelligent understanding of what they heard. That the program was so short is explained in the words of the musician himself.

"I would have given an encore, but no one did make the request," said Marcel Dupre in the small parlor of Centenary Hall, after his wonderful recital in the church. With a shrug that spoke volumes, he made every one who listened realize their loss, by telling them that he gave two extra numbers on request in his recital of the evening before. Someone suggested that he return and give the treat then but the opportunity once lost could not be grasped, and St. John lovers of music have missed at least fifteen minutes more in the mysterious land of heavenly melody. Perhaps it was merely that restrained the audience, someone tried to explain.

Perhaps there was not a full realization of the greatness of the youthful man, with old-world manners, who is such a wizard at the organ, and to whom the great of the world have bowed in respectful deference to his skill. It was not loud applause that he wished the audience to give, but the House of God, but a word through the manager, or a note sent by an usher, would have worked the magic response of just one or two more selections. This would have been to him the truest expression of appreciation, for his renditions did not seem to be in need of outward manifestation so much as a silent adoration of the things as they were developed.

However Dupre has come and gone. His fine execution, his quietness of posture in performing the most difficult compositions and pedalling that was intricate and very rapid, would call forth praise, quite apart from the tonal quality of his work and the sympathetic interpretation that was so markedly shown in his second number, the No. 1 in his own composition, that they were developed. For difficult execution, the first will appeal to any who have played the simplest of Bach's compositions, and this was far from being in that class. The music that was heard last evening will be realized later, when the melodies are recalled in quiet hours.

The improvisations were very intelligently given and the audience were in happy mood as the good old melody of Duke Street rang out, after the sweet carol "Hail Mary, Full of Grace" was so beautifully played. The very old time "Come, let us join our cheerful songs" was not so familiar, but well interpreted. Then came a most tantalizing little theme, that everybody knew, but many could not tabulate, only to wait in astonishment, that they were listening to "Drink to me only with thine eyes." It was rendered in march time and was the musician's idea of the theme, which he brought out in his own way, showing how varied are the minds of even great musicians in regard to an unknown theme, with no association to him beyond the score before him. The Marchaise brought not even join in the National Anthem, wishing to the last to hear the notes of the great organist. The program was as follows:

1—Fantasia and Fugue in G Minor—J. S. Bach. In this magnificent work Bach transcends all the music of his time. This Fantasia is a series of sonorous proclamations, with harmonies unheard of in his day. It is a most interesting structure, very important from the historical point of view. Two different themes, exposed and treated alternatively, are used, as later he used similarly shaped ideas in the development of symphonies. The Fugue, known as the "Great G Minor," is based on a virile, lively theme, which, in spite of elaborate contrapuntal treatment, achieves a freedom unsurpassed by any other mutations, and permits the artist to reconstruct the tone-colors employed by Bach himself in his playing.

2—Noel Avec Variations—d'Aquin. Louis Claude d'Aquin (1894-1772) was "Organiste et Claveciniste du Roi." This Noel, founded on a popular theme of Provence (Southern France), is a fine example of the XVIIIth Century French organ music. Its delicate development should always be played on a rich organ well provided with soft and delicate stops. Several Noels by d'Aquin were published by A. Guilmant in his "Archives de l'Orgue."

3—Fantasia in A—C. Franck. One of the most stirring and most pathetic of Franck's pieces, written for the organ, wherein his "Fantasia in A" are plainly repeated; the first appearance of the grand form of his three chorals, the supreme expression of his genius. The eighth subject, so tender and contemplative, is no other than a subject for a chorale, spreading over the whole work an atmosphere of sweetness and serenity, like a vision of Paradise.

4—Final of the Third Symphony—Vierne. A powerful crescendo, which leads throughout its various presentations; a lively subject, but energetically accented. Concludes by a glorious climax, dominated by the pedal, taking up the subject again in a movement half as quick again.

5—Chimes—E. Bourdon. This particularly successful representation of French chimes, with pure tones, which peal out into the air on a spring morning we owe to the pen of one of the best modern composers. Mr. Emile Bourdon, organist of the big organ of Monaco Cathedral, whose ten organ pieces have lately been published by the firm of Leduec in Paris, was one of the favorite pupils of I. Guilmant at the Paris Academy of Music.

6—Prelude and Fugue in G Minor—Marcel Dupre. This is one of a set of three prelude-and-fugues, written in 1912 and published by Leduec in Paris. The theme of the prelude appears first in the pedal, accompanied by murmuring flutes. After a develop-

Council Refuses To Recognize The Claim

Turns Down Request for Payment on Employment Office Furniture—Will Not Pay Part Bridge Cost.

The city council yesterday decided to inform the Board of Railway Commissioners that the city did not intend to pay any portion of the cost of not back the western abutment of the Chesley street bridge of the C.P.R.; to notify the provincial Controller-General that they did not recognize the claim for one half the cost of equipment for the Employment Bureau, as it was understood the government had equipment on hand at the time the office was opened and would supply it. Commissioner Bullock brought up the matter of fast driving on Rodney wharf and announced his intention of bringing in a by-law dealing with this subject. Several matters of routine business were also disposed of.

Mayor McLellan presided and Commissioners Wigmore, Thornton, Frink and Bullock were present. The Committee of the Whole recommended that a sewer be constructed to serve Kitchen and Barker streets at an estimated cost of $1400, provided that the property owners give a free right of way for the same to the City. The work to be done by the Water and Sewerage Department and payment for the same to be made by bond issue, and that the work and estimated cost be approved. Agreement with property owners for right of way to be prepared by the city solicitor; that the tender of Vassie & Co. Ltd., to supply 660 yards of blue serge for uniforms at $4.35 per yd. be accepted.

That a communication from E. A. Schofield Esq., ex-Mayor of Saint John with reference to the cordwood cut by the City last winter at Musquash be referred to His Worship the Mayor. That the request of the Western Union Telegraph Company to relocate 4 poles and to erect one new pole on Gilbert's Lane be granted, the work to be done to the satisfaction of the City Engineer.

That the prayer of the petition of certain residents and property owners on Dufferin Avenue for two lights on said Avenue be complied with and that the Commissioner of Public Safety be requested to have the lights placed there, and that provision be made in next year's appropriation for the same. Adopted.

A communication was received from the Controller-General of the province asking the city to pay one half of the cost of office equipment furnished for the Employment Bureau, as the Federal government had refused to bear any portion of this cost. Commissioner Thornton said the understanding was that the provincial government would supply this equipment as they had on hand and were not using it for any other purpose. This view of the matter was upheld by Commissioner Wigmore and the common clerk was instructed to write the controller general to that effect.

A letter from Judge J. R. Armstrong, asking that provision be made to carry drains under the sidewalk to the alleysway on the south side of King street east between Wentworth and Pitt, while the water main was being laid, was referred to the commissioners of water and sewerage and public works for a report. It was pointed out that the present by-law provided that every persons must take care of water flowing from their property over the sidewalk.

A communication from the Municipal Review of Cases regarding sub-section 12 was referred to the Mayor, with power to act.

The quarterly bill of the New Brunswick Power Co. for street lights amounting to $9,875.34, was ordered credited to their account.

Commissioner Frink brought up the matter of the C.P.R. bridge over Chesley street. He reported that a communication had been received from J. M. Woodman, of the C.P.R., stating that no record of any permission having been granted for the abutment to occupy the street could be found and he moved that the Board of Railway Commissioners be informed that insofar as the city was concerned they did not intend to pay any portion of the cost of moving back the abutment, unless ordered to do so by the Commission. This did not meet with the approval of members of the council and on motion of Commissioner Thornton the words, "unless ordered to do so by the Commission" were struck out and the message will be that the city does not intend to pay any portion of the cost. Commissioner Bullock referred to the fast driving on Rodney wharf, which he claimed was injuring the wharf and was a by-law covering the speed at which vehicles might travel. He also stated that the portion of this wharf under lease to the New Brunswick Power Co. was not being kept in a proper state of repair.

LADY HUNTER SHOT FINE LARGE MOOSE

Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald and C. H. Alward returned Monday after a very successful hunting trip spent in the Canaan woods in company with Mr. and Mrs. Wright Alward, and Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Keith of Havelock. The party succeeded in bagging two fine moose and one deer. Mrs. MacDonald was the lucky lady of the party, as she succeeded in getting the first moose. They report the game as very plentiful and in fine condition. The party occupied the Keith camp at Covey Lake. This camp was also used by Jack Dempsey and party while on their hunting trip a few weeks ago.

ment, it is repeated by the vox celestis voice. The Fugue is animated, clean-cut in rhythm, and with an element of quaint humor throughout. In the middle section the theme of the Prelude appears in the pedal, later in the soprano voice. The conclusion is a combination of the themes of the Prelude and Fugue, with full organ. 7—Improvised Symphony on themes to be submitted by Mr. James S. Ford during the course of the recital.

THE BRITISH CRISIS—THE OLD LION TAMER RESIGNS

Annual Movement of Export Potato Crop

Markets at Present Unsatisfactory and Demand Is Light—Loading of Steamers Reported Doubtful.

The annual movement of the export potato crop of New Brunswick has not yet made a start, although digging was completed a week ago or longer. The markets at the present time are in a condition just about as unsatisfactory as they could be, and some of the men who have handled the tubers each fall and winter are dropping out this year and refraining from purchasing. Prices are low enough—too low to suit the growers, but the demand is light, particularly in Cuba, for many years the great potato market for New Brunswick shippers. Consignments are not offering in important quantities, and the result is that the loading of a steamer or steamers in St. John harbor this fall is more or less doubtful. Two boats, one belonging to the Canadian Government Merchant Marine service, were to have been available to ship, in St. John, but as the potatoes are not in sight no bookings have been made.

Woodstock and Perth shippers think that they may have from 10,000 to 15,000 barrels for shipment, via St. John, shortly, and if the negotiations in progress are successful these potatoes will probably be placed on board a steamer here about Nov. 1. However, there is as yet no certainty that the Carleton county potatoes will come forward at this time, much depending on the late market reports from Cuba and the Southern States. In the Southern States a representative of the New Brunswick potato growers is endeavoring to find a market for seed potatoes, which in that latitude are planted in December and dug and marketed in March and April. No word has been received from the southern trade this week, so far as known here.

In the Shediac district potatoes are selling from the farm at 70 and 75 cents a barrel delivered at the warehouses, but little cash trade is being done, most of the potatoes having been delivered thus far to satisfy book debts. The same conditions are reported from other sections. It is expected that the general situation will be clarified by the middle of November and that shippers and shipping agents will be in a better position to realize where they are at. It is apparent, however, to all concerned that there will be no fortunes made in the potato business in this province or Aroostook county this season, although the city and town dwellers will benefit from the low prices.

GOT MOOSE AND TWO DEER

Albert F. Graff of Long Island City passed through the city yesterday en route to his home after spending a month hunting in the woods along the Miramichi River. Accompanied by the veteran guide Daniel Doak of Doaktown, he succeeded in bagging a very fine spike horn moose and two deer. Mr. Graff said that the trip was as much for his health as for pleasure and reports himself as greatly improved in health after his month's sojourn in the New Brunswick woods. He left the city last night on the Boston train for his home.

At the adjourned annual meeting of the Natural History Society last evening the matter of enlarging the council from twelve to seventeen members was taken up. Important business will be discussed at a meeting to be held next Tuesday evening.

The annual Convocation of the Society will be held in the museum Tuesday evening, November 7th.

Providing Aid For Baptist Churches

Promotion Committee of Maritime Provinces Holds Meeting in Germain St. Church.

The semi-annual convention of the Promotion Committee of United Baptist church of the Maritime Provinces was held last evening in the Institute of the Germain street Baptist church. Dr. H. P. DeWolfe, the president, occupied the chair. The appointment of field workers was discussed and a committee appointed to interview the Home Mission Board in accordance with the request of the convention. It was arranged that a circular giving very definite information regarding various denominational enterprises should be sent out to all the churches, such a circular to be prepared and issued by the executive. Considerable discussion was given the matter of Evangelism, a report of the committee on that subject having been presented by S. E. Fisher, of this city. A great deal has been accomplished during the last few years in the way of providing evangelistic assistance for pastors needing help. The committee will continue that good work with all the churches, requesting such assistance this year. The stewardship committee was reappointed, with the understanding that they will stipulate the organization of district committees to work with the key-men appointed by the finance committee, and by circulars or otherwise stimulate local churches to the accomplishment of the task allocated to them. Such stimulation doubtless had a great deal to do with the fact that the receipts of last year were of a much higher level than any year in the past. Various other subjects were discussed, including the pooling of expenses of the delegates attending the convention; the relation of the denomination to the Maritime Religious Education Council; the overlapping within their constituent bodies, and the dates of associations. The majority of these could not be finally settled and were referred to committees whose duty it will be to go into the subject more in detail and report at a later session of the promotion committee.

The ladies of the Germain street Baptist congregation treated the members of the committee to a bounteous repast. In the rooms of the Institute, their splendid hospitality was greatly appreciated by the committee, and a resolution of thanks was unanimously passed by them. The members of the committee included Rev. Dr. H. S. DeWolfe, president; Rev. E. S. Mason, secretary; the Revs. H. M. Manzer, A. J. Prosser, P. C. Bishop, Z. L. Fash, C. R. Freeman, M. S. Richardson, H. C. Machum, S. S. Poole and G. D. Hunt, and Messrs. J. P. Gordon, of Charlottetown; F. L. Atherton, of Woodstock, and S. E. Fisher, of St. John.

Rev. B. O. Morse, of the Maritime Baptist, was present and took part in the discussion.

King's Daughters In His Name Circle

Enthusiastic Meeting Marks the Plans for Armistice Tea and Sale.

In His Name Circle, King's Daughters, met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. E. E. Thomas, Paddock street, with a large number of the members present. The conveners of the various committees reported that plans were completed for the Armistice tea and sale to be held at the Guild on Saturday, November 11.

Mrs. F. K. McArthur presided at the meeting, which was one of the most enthusiastic held for some time.

U. S. Tariff Will Cost People Much

Judge Gary, Head of Steel Corporation, Fears Effect on Trade—Certain Mills May be Dismantled.

A prominent local business man, recently returned from New York, when asked by a representative of The Journal if the American manufacturer was in sympathy with the Fordney tariff legislation, said that several large manufacturers had expressed their views in regard to the outlook. One in particular had made a statement in which he said that the farmers had laid hold of the American house and Senate with a most aggressive grip and had used all their powerful influence to develop legislation which would protect their large interests. The farmers had succeeded in having a bill passed which had shut out all foreign cereals, animals and animal products.

It was clearly and forcibly pointed out by prominent American statesmen, bankers and manufacturers, both Republican and Democratic, that the only result of such legislation would be additional burdens for the larger mass of the people, and a much higher cost for the absolute necessities of life.

The tariff wall would also add greatly to the cost of manufacturing. Judge Gary, President of the United States Steel Corporation, very frankly told the American people that unless their export trade was very fully sustained the corporation would have to scrap those manufacturing plants devoted to the foreign trade. No one nation can erect a Chinese tariff wall, he said, against the other nations of the world and not suffer. This old world amidst all its difficulties and turmoil is fast moving towards normal conditions. When these obtain, the United States will be confronted by higher cost of living and cost of production. Both these factors will curtail exports and freedom of trade.

It is to be deplored, Judge Gary added, that while her neighbors and associate nations are struggling to find some basis of permanent and helpful trading the United States should attempt to wall up the natural channels through which trade should flow.

CIRCULATION OF CANADIAN BANKS SHOWS INCREASE

Ottawa, Oct. 24.—The bank statement for September, which will be issued shortly, will show an increase in the note circulation of Canadian banks of nearly nineteen million dollars, as compared with the previous month, an increase in demand deposits of nearly fifteen millions, and a decrease of six millions in savings deposits. Dominion notes held by the banks have increased by ten millions; call loans in Canada are up seven millions; call loans outside of Canada show a decrease of four millions; current loans in Canada are up twelve millions, also as compared with the previous month.

The increase in the bank's note circulation is attributed to the crop movement. In September, 1921, note circulation of the banks was ten millions more than it was at the end of last month.

The Y. M. C. A. leader's corps held their regular meeting last evening in the Association rooms. Supper was served at 6.30 by a group of young ladies from the Y.W.C.A.

Will Try Today To Locate Body

Another Effort Will be Made to Find Remains of Hudson McIntyre, One of Victims of Dream Disaster.

Another effort will be made today to locate the body of Hudson McIntyre, one of the victims of the Dream disaster, who sank while endeavoring to swim from the sinking ship to the shore. Yesterday afternoon a number of colored friends of the deceased arrived at Gorham's Bluff and will start grappling this morning, in the hope that they may recover his body. The task is a difficult one as the water is very deep and it is said the bottom is very uneven.

Yesterday was very rough and the water in the river was rising quite fast. It was reported last evening by A. R. Gorham that so far as could be judged from the shore one of the life boats of the steamer had broken adrift, as only one could be seen still floating on the water.

The Striping In This Muskrat--

Presents the finished art of peltry arrangement. And the price is a rivalling feature.

The designer was satisfied only with the doubly shaded backs of this everlasting fur. We worked a five banded skirt hem below vertical drops over a sweep so wide it creates all round no less than five long folds.

Then he came to the collar. A deep cape resulted with four rows of furs gathered above the lapels in a crush. Two horizontal pockets, a pull through belt to permit varying drapes, two banded cuffs and a lining of Alice blue silk surmounted by oriental flowers made up this new mode in muskrat—the fur that never fails. In the 40 inch length.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try Laxative acid all digestive aids and instead get from any drugist a few ounces of Bismarck Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bismarck Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.
