LUMBERING IS BRISK IN N. S.

Shipbuilding Is Likely to Revive, Asserts V. M. Elderkin.

V. M. Elderkin, of Port Greville, N. S., passed through the city yesterday en route to his lumber camps in Antigonish county, N. S., after spending the Christmas holiday at home. When seen last evening at the Victoria by a Journal representative Mr. Elderkin said there was a big revival in the lumber industry in the neighboring province this year, both by the larger and smaller operators. He expected the cut would be much larger than that of last year, and this all meant more work next summer.

Speaking of the shipbuilding industry, he said things were rather quiet at present, but a revival of building, in the smaller schooners, two and three topmasters, for Bay and coastal work, was expected soon and he understood one at least would be built at Port Greville next summer.

The farmers of that section had a good crop last year and the shipping of cattle, which at one time was a big business there, had been resumed, three shiplads having been sent to Newfoundland last fall.

ton, is the guest of Miss Dorothy Kee, Leinster street.

Mr. Gordon Titus, principal of the Salisbury Superior School, is spending his vacation in St. John with his parents.

Mrs. Lee Taylor, organist of the Baptist church at Salisbury, was the recipient of a purse of money, as a token of the appreciation from the congregation. Mrs. Taylor replied with graceful address, after having led a most interesting Christmas program, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are now residents of Moncton, but are faithful in their attendance at the services at Salisbury, where they greatly assist the pastor, Rev. P. G. Francis. Rev. J. B. Young of the Methodist church also conducted a Christmas service in his church.

MAIN ST. SUPPER.

The Main Street Baptist Sunday school held their annual Christmas for the scholars yesterday afternoon and last evening. In the afternoon at four o'clock the members of the primary met in their room and after a bountiful supper were visited by Santa Claus, who gave each a bag of candy and nuts. At 5:40 the immediate scholars and their parents and at 6:30 the adults were served. About three hundred and fifty scholars were present.

CORN.

Important news to you: The 1922 corn crop exceeds 2890 million bushels. This is smaller than in the best two years, but it's a good normal crop. Why important? Because corn is our greatest grain crop. We depend on it for a large part of our food supply.

Only a tenth of our corn is used directly as food. Eighty-five out of every 100 bushels are fed to animals that furnish our meat and milk and help us work.

A good crop is always more important news than such things as big auto production or output of steel.
