VERY COMPLIMENTARY

(Toronto Mail and Empire)

"I was impressed with the fact that Canadian women are becoming splendid speakers. Those who spoke at the annual meeting of the National Council of Women were fully equal to the speakers at the Pan-American Conference of Women Voters at Baltimore," said Mrs. R.G. Smythe, president of the Toronto Local Council of Women, who has just returned from Port Arthur and Fort William following the annual meeting. Mrs. Smythe pays warm tribute to the members of the Local Council at Port Arthur and Fort William and to the officials who arranged so many pleasant social functions in honor of the delegates. On the return trip, at Sault Ste. Marie, the Local Council of Women presented the delegates with flowers. Among others who attended the convention from Toronto were Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen, provincial vice-president of Ontario; Mrs. C.A. Northover, Mrs. Campbell MacIver, Mrs. W.H. Becker and Mrs. J. Wesley Bundy.

SUPERB FAN OF PLUMES

Brussels, July 5—The Queen of the Belgians has been presented with a magnificent fan of ostrich plumes mounted on ivory with her monogram in Cape diamonds.

The fan consists of eighteen plumes and the gift includes an artistic leather case.

The present was made by the Belgian colony and the British business men at Cape Town in token of their admiration for the Queen's devotion to the wounded during the World War.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

Jealousy is probably a universal instinct, but some people conceal it more effectively than others.

The Persians are supposed to lead all others in the display of this emotion. It used to be criminal for a man to look at the habitations of his neighbors' wives.

When a Persian's wife dies he builds a hut over the grave so that no man may even look at that.

A DIVORCE GRANTED

After many years of patient suffering, you can be divorced from corns, you can get rid of them completely by applying Putnam's Corn Extractor. This wonderful old remedy acts in 24 hours and never fails. Refuse a substitute and remember "Putnam's" is the only Painless remedy. 25c. everywhere.

When To Decide On Long Skirts

Only When Age and Legs Forbid the Short Ones.

London, July 5—An overwhelming majority of London artists, dress-designers and society women, after weeks of lively discussion, echo the opinion of Baroness de la Tombelle, expressed in Paris, that the length of a woman's skirt is "all a question of age—and legs."

Lady Kitty Vincent, sister of the Earl of Airlie, whose mother was lady in waiting to Queen Victoria, says:

"No one with bad ankles can afford to appear in a short skirt. The tight skirt, tapering to a narrow round, has the effect of making the leg appear twice as thick. Many women, without suffering any abnormal development, possess what might be called 'useful' legs. They are not absolutely unsightly, but they do not display the delightful curves and alluring which makes some ankles 'a sight for sair een.' Never buy a shoe which has a round toe. The long vamp carries the eye down in a graceful curve and prevents it resting upon the thick part of the leg."

Artists Agree.

Britain's leading artists agree with Shakespeare that "the leg's the thing." Edmund Dulac, a noted colorist, illustrator and caricaturist in sculpture, thinks that the short skirt is the only fit garment for the present day Englishwoman. Comparing them with women of ten years ago, he observes:

"They have limbs well modelled. There are better legs about. They can and do wear the short skirt with ease and elegance. I find the new type very agreeable and the new short dresses even more so. I am all for the short skirt."

Sir William Orpen, the celebrated painter of war pictures and now one of Britain's leading portrait painters, remarks:

"Long dresses are very good for fat legs; but every woman ought to know that without being told. Short skirts on a thin girl give you a view of a pair of spindly shanks that won't stop them wearing them if it's the fashion. What we want is the fashion of dressing to show the best and not the worst of women. If a woman has a scraggy neck, by all means let her cover it. If she has a lovely arm, why cover it with a glove? Yes, we have broken with the convention which kept a woman's ankles out of sight."

"I have no wish to go back to trailing dresses,' declared Lady Alexander. "London is not the place for them, and in these days, when women lead such an active life, they do not want long skirts to impede them. I think that the fashions of today are prettier than they were in King Edward's reign, and I consider that the ideal length is just above the ankles for indoors and shorter for tailor mades."

"Women's figures seem to have altered very much in the last twenty years," asserts Miss Flora Lion, a portrait painter. "Very recently I borrowed a dress of the early Victorian period to use in the composition of a picture, and it was too small for any one to wear. In spite of all, however, I think many of the fashions of today are very beautiful."

Miss Dorothy Wilding, a photographer, thinks: "Only one woman in a hundred can wear the long skirt gracefully in the street. The average woman's feet and ankles are prettier than her face. The short skirt, I hope will never be altered for street wear as it is smarter and more convenient and therefore should always be adopted for that purpose."

New Discovery Makes Superfluous Hair Leave

As hair or fuzz on the face is such an embarrassing thing, every woman so afflicted will welcome the information that these disfigurements can now be completely removed—roots and all—in the privacy of one's own home, without the assistance of an expert.

The new method will astonish and delight you. You never saw or heard of anything like it before. It is not a depilatory and not electrical. Just get a stick of phelactine from your druggist and follow the simple directions at home. In a jiffy you have removed the offending hairs completely. With your own eyes you see the roots come out. Phelactine is absolutely harmless, non-poisonous and perfectly odorless.

Gingham Dresses.

Put your new gingham in a pan of cold, salty water for an hour, and then hang smoothly, letting it drip dry. When you make it up you will know it will neither shrink nor fade.

Gummed Tape.

A roll of gummed tape is a handy article to keep on hand. It takes up very little room and can be used for labelling jars and bottles, for sealing boxes when it is time to put away the winter things, and it is also handy to use instead of string when wrapping packages.

Successful Baking.

Cakes, bread and pastry need air in their composition, therefore beating is better for them than stirring when mixing the ingredients together. Stirring is a slower movement, which stays more with the pan, while beating lifts a portion of the mixture with the spoon and takes a certain amount of air back with it.

Mrs. Bennett Won Her Divorce Suit

Husband Now Living With Another Woman in Nova Scotia.

Fredericton, July 5.—A decree of divorce, with costs, was granted this morning in the case of Emma Bennett vs. Andrew Bennett, by Mr. Justice Crocket at the conclusion of the hearing which occupied about an hour. The action in the case was brought on the usual grounds by the wife, the case at first having been entered as a defended action, but the defence being later dropped.

The plaintiff testified that she and Bennett had been married in 1902, by Rev. G .A. Hartley, at St. John, and that after residing at Carleton, St. John, between three and four weeks, the husband suddenly disappeared and she had not heard from him since. The husband had been presumed to be dead by the plaintiff, until last fall, when she was informed, through her sister-in-daw, that he was residing with another woman in Nova Scotia and that three children had been born to them. The plaintiff immediately placed the case in the hands of H. A. Powell, who established the facts of the husband's whereabouts and had a commission issued to take evidence from parties in Nova Scotia.

On motion this commission was opened and the evidence read, which went to prove that the husband had been living with another woman, by whom he had three children. The evidence included testimony of the medical practitioner who attended the confinement cases.

In Emma Fownes vs. Albert Alonzo Fownes, Moncton, Mr. Powell announced that efforts were being made to effect a settlement, and asked for a recess to permit the parties to get together. In the event of the case coming to trial, Mr. Powell expressed the opinion that the hearing would occupy six or seven days.

This is the only remaining case which was entered as a defendant action. The court granted the recess until three p.m.

SICKENING CALOMEL NOT FAVORED; MORE AGREEABLE MEDICINE PRESCRIBED

Calomel and Blue Pills are not used as they once were. When the head aches, when the stomach is upset, when the liver is not working right, don't resort to harsh calomel, use a pleasant, agreeable remedy like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Being largely vegetable in their composition, Dr. Hamilton's Pills are extremely mild, yet they surely flush out all impurities and wastes. No remedy is so well adapted for general family use. For constipation and bowel trouble, Dr. Hamilton's Pills can't be improved upon. Good for the young, the old, the sick, the well ones. The benefits of Dr. Hamilton's Pills are manifold. Needed and useful in every home. 25c. all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Montreal.

TYPHOID FEVER

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

THERE always is a great deal of typhoid fever during the vacation season, because people on trips or out camping forget their accustomed health habits and eat food and drink water, the source of which may be unknown.

Every typhoid case comes from a previous case or from a person who has had the disease and still carries the germs.

Sometimes this happens by direct contact; sometimes the infection so transmitted indirectly, by water, milk or other foods.

In milk the germs not only live but multiply, so that we should be particularly careful about the milk we drink. If we do not know how it is produced and handled, we should insist on pasteurization. We should insist also on knowing whether the water we use is pure. If there is any doubt, the water should be boiled. Take a supply of pure water with you on motor or camping trips if possible.

Typhoid germs often pass from hand to hand and from hand to mouth, so keep your fingers and everything else except your table utensils out of your mouth.

Flies may be carriers of typhoid, for they fly from filth to food. Screens help to keep them out, but the only way to deal with them successfully is to prevent them from breeding.

Since we cannot always know who prepares our food and are many times dependent on the cleanliness of those who serve us, there is but one way to be absolutely sure of avoiding typhoid and that is by taking the typhoid preventive treatment. It is very simple, requiring but one small inoculation weekly for three successive weeks.

SPORT COSTUME

For general wear, in spite of the popularity of knickers, the separate skirt and loose over-blouse is still the favorite costume.

The skirts, this season, are often fringed and are usually made in the wrap-around style. As the weather grows hotter white is seen more and more, although the brilliant colors show no waning in popularity.

The blouse is usually of the middy type, but fitted slightly to make a more graceful garment and may be seen in all colors and combinations of colors.

Every material from white flannel to embroidered imported silks is used according to one's ideas of where to spend one's holiday.

Renewal of Old Acquaintances

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Morgan are enjoying the renewal of old scenes and acquaintances while visiting Mrs. Morgan's sister, Mrs. Fred Kee, 182 St. James street. It is a number of years since Mr. and Mrs. Morgan went to San Francisco, where they conducted a fruit ranch, residing, however in the city until the earthquake. After which, for some time, they lived in the country outside the city of their adoption. When war broke out, Mr. Morgan joined up with the navy and travelled to all parts of the war countries, returning to his home in 1919. Shortly after, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan disposed of their ranch and have since lived in retirement from business in one of the beautiful homes that have arisen out of the ruins of the old city. Mrs. John Kerr, who is an aunt of Mrs. Morgan, is delighted to have the pleasure of her niece's company, and the former Margaret Dunlavy will be gladly welcomed by her school-mates of other days, and she herself expresses a thrill of pleasure in seeing all the improvements that have come to her old home, for with all the changes, St. John is home still.

Mrs. Margot Asquith And Prohibition

Mrs. Margot Asquith has written to the Manchester Guardian to say that she spoke too soon when she declared "that prohibition in the United States was a farce. She also stated that possibly it was unwise for her to have written at all upon prohibition, as during her short stay in America, she had seen only "particular kinds of people, in the big cities." She further said that she did not wish to be quoted at "lined up" with those who thought that drinking alcohol in moderation was harmless. The enemies of temperance, she said, were those who drank alcohol in moderation.

This message was received at the office of the Christian Guardian and quoted in the Toronto Mail and Empire.
