Weddings

The home of Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Henderson, Grand Harbor, Grand Manan was, on Saturday evening, Oct. 21, the scene of a charming wedding when their daughter, Annie Mildred was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Manfred Heady Belker of Kars, N. B. To the strains of the wedding march, played by Miss Irma Ingalls, the bride, on the arm of her father descended to the tastefully decorated parlor, where beneath the floral arch she was met by the bridegroom. After the ceremony, a large reception was held and refreshments served. The bride was costumed in white satin and georgette pearl trimming and her bridesmaid, Miss Inez Henderson, was attired in mauve crepe de chine trimmed in white tulle lace. The bride was the recipient of many valuable gifts from relatives, friends and the Sunday School class, of which she was a member. They left on Monday's boat for a visit in St. John, after which they will reside on their farm at Kars.

A wedding of interest to a great many St. John friends was solemnized in the First Presbyterian Manse, of Somerville, Mass., on the 23rd inst., when the Rev. R. L. Barbor united in marriage with a double ring ceremony Miss Christina S. Irvine, youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Irvine of Milford, N. B., to Arthur S. Long, of St. John, N.B., but now of Boston, son of A. E. Long, Coles Island, N. B.

The bride was attired in a gown of sand crepe-de-chene and georgette with hat to correspond and carried a bouquet of bridal roses. Mrs. Arthur W. MacCavour was bridesmaid and was attired in brown with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The groom was supported by Arthur W. MacCavour, of Boston, formerly of St. John, N.B.

After the ceremony the bridal party motored to their future home in Charlestown, Mass., where a reception was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Long have a host of friends who wish them a long and happy married life.

Where Shall We Shop Today?

That is the question that frequently comes up from time to time. "Where will we shop today?" The Daily Journal intends to try and help the ladies of St. John solve this sometimes perplexing problem.

Beginning Monday, October 30th, there will appear on the Woman's Page a short article from the pen of an experienced "shopper." The suggestions contained in the article are intended as a help to women shoppers.

We believe much time can be saved and profit gained by giving these suggestions such attention as they deserve.

APRICOT TARTLETS

Made like this:

(By Gertrude Olmsted)

Make a cupful of stewed apricots and drain thoroughly. Then press through a course strainer. Add the following to the apricot pulp: two-thirds cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of fine cracker crumbs, one egg beaten slightly and one half cupful of chopped walnut meats. Then roll the pastry dough quite thin and cut into circles five or six inches in diameter. In the center of the lower circle of each tart put a spoonful of the filling, wet the edges and press the upper circle in position. Prick the surface and bake the tarts at 450 degrees F. for 15 minutes or until tarts are done.

HERE'S ANOTHER

Stuffed Apple

After coring the apple, chop together walnuts, hickory nuts and almonds. Place the apples in a hot oven for about five minutes then take out, fill with the nuts and return them to the oven for five minutes more. Whipped cream may be served atop the apples making a very delicious dessert.

Sackville Lady Is Prominent In Nurses' Convention

Miss Martha J. Ayard, R. N., Supt. of Addison Gilbert Hospital, Gloucester, Mass., is Chairman of Hospitality Committee.

A recent issue of the Gloucester Daily Times, (Mass.) announces the autumn session of the Massachusetts State Nurses' Association held in that city. The paper also contains photographs of the officers and members who are prominent in the convention, including Miss Martha J. Ayard, R. N., a Sackville lady, who has been Superintendent of the Addison Gilbert Hospital, Gloucester, Mass., for the past four years, and is chairman of the Hospitality Committee in connection with the convention.

The Gloucester, Mass., Daily Times (Oct. 6th) says:— Gloucester will welcome another convention tomorrow when the Massachusetts State Nurses' Association will hold their autumn meeting at Legion hall.

Some 300 or more members are coming and a most enjoyable program has been arranged mainly through the efforts of the Nurses' Alumni of the Addison Gilbert hospital who extended the invitation to the association to hold its meeting here and which was unanimously accepted.

The local alumni have left nothing undone to insure success to the day's festivities. There will be a forenoon and afternoon session for business and discussion. The principal speaker will be Congressman A. Platt Andrews, Dr. Philip P. Moore, chairman of the local Board of Health will lead the community singing. Rev. John Clarence Lee will give the invocation. From 5.30 to 6 p. m. there will be a concert on the carillon at the Church of Our Lady of Good Voyage, George B. Stevens, carillonneur.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You know that a man's position when walking with two women is the outside—that is, the curb side of the sidewalk—not between the women.

A man, of course, never takes a woman's arm. This savors of undue familiarity. If he feels she needs protection or guidance he may offer his arm, but not attempt to thrust his arm through hers or grasp her by the elbow to guide her across the street.

Life Membership For Canvassing

Mrs. Clifford Williams Honored by Membership Voluntarily Donated by Mayor McLellan.

Mrs. Clifford Williams was an interested worker of the Red Cross campaign yesterday and appeared in the headquarters with a very happy countenance, as she had a life membership to show for her canvassing, voluntarily donated by His Worship, Mayor H. R. McLellan. Up to a late hour in the afternoon, this was the first life membership that had been obtained in this campaign, but the workers were confident that the generous example of the chief magistrate of the city would be followed by others.

Mrs. E. T. Sturdee, Mrs. C. H. Beard, Mrs. James F. Robertson, Miss Jarvis and Miss Seeds were busily engaged throughout the day, relieving one another in the pleasant duty of receiving the money brought in by the collectors. The work, though pleasant was taxing and they are glad that the day is over and the results so gratifying. The sum raised will not be available for some days, but there were at least five hundred dollars on hand when the afternoon cash was turned in.

In Boston, a man asks divorce because she let men kiss her. Why not feed her on onions?
In Chicago, mediums are delivering spirit messages, all of which seem to come "collect."

F. W. Daniel & Co.

Head of King St.

promise to have a vogue among the younger set. It is quite effective to have velvet flowers, matching the evening frock, twisted about the wrists to form bracelets.

Turbans for Evening.

Smart turbans for evening are noted at all fashionable openings. They are usually formed of silver or gold cloth and illusion or of beads and metal cords. They are close and light in weight, and there seems to be a tendency to avoid spreading feathers or attempts at elaboration of outline.

Three-Piece Costume.

The three-piece costume quite frequently has a short jacket of fur or velvet instead of the material of the gown itself. Caracul, mole and squirrel make smart little coats.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE

A very old custom still prevails at a Bedouin marriage.

The bridegroom comes to the home of his bride bearing a lamb in his arm. When the guests are assembled he cuts the lamb's throat. As soon as the blood falls upon the ground the marriage ceremony is over. The guests then repair to the feast.
