Let's Not Have Any Sorry Little Kiddies Like These in St. John

It will be nothing less than a tragedy if these eager little fellows, now looking forward hopefully to the arrival of Santa, are overlooked Christmas. Sickens in their homes makes Santa pass them by—unless some member of The Journal's Empty Stocking Fund comes to their rescue.

EMPTY STOCKING FUND

The Empty Stocking Fund, although only two days old this year, is growing and it is surprising how many citizens care for the happiness of the poorer class of little children in the city. From all appearances it will be necessary to purchase many more stockings, and along with the stockings will go all the candy, nuts, apples, raisins, and oranges.

Just think, dear readers, what the poor little girls and boys who have not the opportunity of awakening on Christmas morning to find that Santa Claus has not forgotten them, and instead of a stocking with the toes and heels worn out, hanging from the mantel-piece, they will find a pair of the best woolen stockings available and filled with the good things that makes the heart beat with pleasure for the youngsters.

The older folk remember when they were children how on Christmas eve they hastened to bed early so they would not be awake when Santa Claus arrived during the night. The empty stockings were fastened to the mantel-piece, and messages had been sent up through the chimney telling Santa Claus what was wanted. Then in the morning, that morning of gladness, what "a grand and glorious feeling," to jump out of bed and find the stockings well filled with good things. We were then all happy kiddies to think that Santa had not forgotten us. But think of the disappointment if circumstances prevented Santa Claus from paying us a visit. There are very many cases like this in the city of St. John.

Through the Empty Stocking Fund plan, there should be no such disappointment for any youngster in the city. The editor of The Journal Fund, if provided with enough cash, "Somebody Who Cares," and that means those with a feeling of tenderness towards the less fortunate in the city, for every worthy case will surely be looked after. It is a grand opportunity to make the children happy, and even the smallest cash contribution will help.

The Empty Stocking Fund will not interfere in the least with other ways of assisting the needy. Some organizations send baskets of food to families, others send clothing, wood or coal, but in the majority of cases these homes have children who will not obtain the Christmas cheer that is provided to the youngsters of a more fortunate home.

Keep in mind that when you make a contribution to the Empty Stocking Fund you are on the list of "Somebody Who Cares." You will be thus able to enjoy your Christmas along with your children, with the thought that during the pleasure you are enjoying that you have made the hearts of others least fortunate happy. You will gladden the heart of some poor youngster who is not to blame for the situation in which it is placed.

In a short time the Empty Stocking Editor will get into communication with the local clergymen of all denominations for the purpose of obtaining names and addresses of families in the city whose Christmas could be made happy through this fund. In addition to the names received from churches, any citizen who is aware of a worthy case is requested to send in the names, for it is the intention of the Journal to supply poor children with good warm stockings and other good things just as far as the finances will permit.

Don't be backward—send in a cash donation, it will be appreciated no matter how small, and show that "Somebody Cares."

It might again be mentioned that the names of those who send in contributions will be kept strictly confidential, as well as the names of the families who will receive the stockings.
