A GOOD ROADS GRANT IS URGED FOR PROVINCES

Request Made at Ottawa for $20,000,000 for Highways.

Ottawa, Nov. 28—The Canadian Good Roads Association request for a Dominion grant of $20,000,000 toward aiding provinces in the construction of highways as a supplement to the grant of a similar amount made in 1919 and which is almost expended, is being pressed upon members of the government here by association officers.

S. L. Squires, chairman of the executive, and George A. McNamee, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Good Roads Association, are in Ottawa interviewing members of the cabinet and just prior to the opening of the forthcoming session of parliament a delegation representative of the provincial governments, publicity bureaus, tourist associations and local branches of the association will again press the advisability of the grant before the government.

Asks For Extension

The association is also asking for an extension of the time limit in connection with the grant made in 1919 for those provinces which have so far been unable to take up their full allotment.

In connection with the campaign for the additional grant of $20,000,000, Mr. Squires said today that a national conference would be called early in the new year, to which all interested bodies, including tourist associations, publicity bureaus, boards of trade and the provincial governments would be invited to send delegates. This conference wil lbe held either in Montreal, Ottawa or Toronto. The actual meeting place will be decided upon at the next meeting of the executive of the Good Roads Association.

Publicity Campaign

The conference will also consider ways and means for a world-wide publicity campaign for the purpose of fostering tourist travel to Canada, encouraging Canadians to travel in their own country and to educate the people of the United States to the adavntages of visiting Canada.

Mr. Squires declared that such a campaign would benefit Canada through the increase in tourist travel, and that it would also stimulate immigration, trade and would assist in the development of the natural resources and agriculture.

MUST REMEDY DANGEROUS SITUATION

East St. John Residents Urged by Dr. L. M. Curren, M. L. A., to Install Sanitary System — Sewerage Bill May be Defeated, However.

A meeting of ratepayers of East St. John, held last evening in the Community hall, to consider the installation of a sewerage system, was well attended.

A plan of the proposed sewers and an estimate of their cost was placed before the meeting by G. G. Murdoch. An estimate of the amount necessary to finance the operation was presented by J. King Kelley, K. C., county secretary, and an estimate of the tax rate if a water and sewerage system were adopted was given by W. F. Burditt. R. W. Wigmore, commissioner of water and sewerage for St. John, gave his views on the water supply and how it could be obtained. The feeling of those at the meeting seemed to be that the sewerage act was no good without some provision for an assessment for water as well, and judging from the expressions of opinion heard the bill will be defeated at the plebiscite. Dr. L. M. Curren, M. L. A., in a short address urged the necessity for taking steps to remedy the present unsanitary and dangerous condition which existed in the community

The meeting was called to order by Councillor Magee. Rupert Taylor was elected chairman and Frank Groves secretary. The chairman in his opening said the act was a purely sewerage one, and in his opinion water was more needed than sewers. He felt sure if the act had provided for water to flush the sewers there would have been no question of its adoption, that he did not think the present measure met the situation.

On motion the act was then read by the chairman, as some present were not familiar with its provisions.

Councillor A. M. Magee was first called on by the chairman and he briefly reviewed the steps leading up to the sending of the bill to the legislature. The move had been made at the request of the Board of Health and there had been much discussion as the best way of going about getting the sewers. It had been suggested that union with the city would bring about the desired result in the most economical way, but very little progress had been made in that direction. The district for sewers began at Kane's Corner, ran to the Morris line, through Beacon avenue to Little River, along Little River to Courtenay Bay, along the shore to the Marsh Creek and thence to Leonard's Creek and from there to the place of beginning.

Councillor Mosher said he thought it would be an easy matter after the sewers had been installed to arrange with the city for a water supply and the putting in of these services would bring people into the district to settle

Engineer Murdoch's Plan

G. G. Murdoch, presented a detailed plan of the proposed sewers. Eventually the district would have to be divided into four areas with an outfall for each, but for the present only two outfalls would be needed. The estimated cost of the work, with two outfalls, was $50,490, and he did not believe it would go over that figure. This provided for 15,110 feet of sewer, of which 1,400 feet would be trunk sewers. In this amount was included three catch basins, as more could not be placed until the streets were graded and proper gutters provided. The land damages would be additional to this estimate.

J. King Kelley, K. C., county secretary, said when the bill was prepared the reason there was no mention of water was because that was all covered in legislation passed years ago, and all the Simonds councillors had to do was to go to city hall and demand water, which would, no doubt, be supplied them on the same terms as it was to the city and Lancaster. Dealing with the cost of the work Mr. Kelley said the cost to the district would, on a forty year bond issue be $75.68 on each $1,000 of bonds.

Commissioner Wigmore said he quite realized that sewers were not much use without water to flush them, and told the meeting that he was willing to recommend to council that extensions be made there on the same terms as in the city and Lancaster, a guarantee of ten per cent. on the cost. He estimated the cost of the 12,000 feet of pipe which would be necessary, using eight inch pipe, would be, if laid in the same trench as the sewer, about $25,000, and hydrants would cost between $250 and $325 each.

Mr. Burditt said he had figured out the increase in tax rate needed and this would be about $1.85 per $100 of valuation. This would bring the valuation up to about $5.50 per $100 of valuation.

NO AIR MAIL SERVICE YET

J. A. Wilson, Secretary of Air Board, Ottawa, Tells Canadian Club Distances in Dominion Are a Handicap.

An illustrated address on "Aviation in Canada," was delivered last evening at the Canadian Club by J. A. Wilson, secretary of the Air Board, at Ottawa. There was a large attendance of members at the dinner which was held in Bond's Restaurant and C. B Allan, vice-president of the Club, was in the chair.

Mr. Wilson, after dealing briefly with the early history of aviation and explaining the great impetus which the war had given to it, confined his remarks to aviation in Canada and the wonderful strides it had made. He spoke of the work of the Air Board, of the various stations which had been established in the different provinces of Canada and of the wonderful help the airplane was proving to the departments of the Federal Government. He expressed the belief that with its vast distances and small population, it would be some years before Canada could hope to have mail and passenger air services, although these were being successfully operated in the United States, but Canada was benefitting and very materially, from the use of aircraft in forest protection, protection of her fisheries, prevention of drug traffic and in surveying.

He dwelt at great length on the work of the forest fire patrols and flashed on the screen many actual aerial photographs which showed very conclusively that the airplane is invaluable as a detector of forest fires. He explained that in many instances, where fires were discovered in their early stages, the airplane after communicating with forest rangers by wireless telephone, (with which every machine was provided) flew back to its base and took aboard a sufficient crew to fight the fire and prevent its spread for more than a few acres. In some of these instances, he remarked that without the aid of the airplane it would have taken several days to get crews of men into the forests and by that time the fire would probably have reached such proportions that it might have been necessary to just let it burn itself out. He spoke of the work in British Columbia and showed some exceptionally fine pictures of the Rocky Mountains take nfrom the air. The forests of British Columbia were being protected by airplanes and on the Western coast the airplanes were also used in prevention of drug smuggling and also in protecting the fishing industry.

Slides were shown on the screen depicting the work carried on in Manitoba, Alberta and Saskatchewan and the far North, where the long distances which surveyors ha dto tackle by unused trails and portages, were cut to a straight line by air, and they were allowed to do their work much more effectively in a very short time.

He spoke of aviation in the Maritime Provinces, mentioning the fact that an air station was maintained at Dartmouth in Nova Scotia.

The first prize was won by Mrs. Guy Daye and the two consolation prizes by Miss Alice Sullivan and Mr. Harry Clements. A number of delightful vocal numbers were rendered during the evening by a chorus of mixed voices, all of which were greatly enjoyed.

An orchestra provided music for dancing. The feature of the evening's entertainment was popular with many of the younger folk. Dainty refreshments were served by members of the association, after which the dancing continued till mid-night. This was the first of a series of social evenings which the boys purpose holding during the winter months.

The Women's Canadian Club met in regular monthly session Wednesday evening in the Town Council Chambers. The president, Mrs. E. V. Sullivan, presiding. At the conclusion of the business meeting Mrs. Sullivan introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. H. A. Cody, who delivered a lecture on "The Trail of Canadian Literature."

In his opening remarks Mr. Cody outlined the requirements for authorship, and pointed out some of the dangerous spots and difficulties along the trail.

He said that while Canada's contribution to the world's literature did not, perhaps, rank with the highest, it was due more to lack of training for the work, than to lack of ability.

Much, however, in which we should feel great pride, had been accomplished. We have historians, novelists, humorists and poets who are making a name for Canada in the world of literature, and in the line of poetry we have many in whom we should feel an especial pride, New Brunswick boasting of a fair share of sons, among the best of our poets.
