KINDERGARTENS AND THE CHILDREN

In a recent account of the need of Kindergarten enlargement to accommodate the demands of the work, a line was omitted from the article which made it read that there were two children who sought admittance to the city kindergarten and could not obtain it. It reads strangely, of course, but perhaps to those who do not deal in large numbers, but in the importance of small things, the fact that only two children cannot be taken in, on account of limited space and equipment, makes the lack in the scope of the work even greater than the real fact that two children are turned away every day from the schools for want of room, etc. Whether two different children are turned away every day, or the same two, the difficulty is in existence and it is to be hoped that the opportunity will open for the two we people either in the single instance or multiplied, to be able to attend one of the wonderful child gardens, that are now well established in St. John.

USEFUL HINTS

Fall Footwear

Fashion says the low, flat heel is not to be so popular for street wear this winter, and that it will give way to a moderately high Spanish or Cuban heel.

Monkey Fringe

A short sports coat of ermine is made distinctive by the addition of a fringe of monkey fur about the lower edge. The coat ends at the hip line.

For Dancing

A graceful dancing frock for a young girl is of orchid georgette with a many-paneled skirt of irregular hemline, piped in silver. The giraffe is a wreath of silver flowers. The blouse is practically without trimming and is sleeveless.

Handsome Handbags

French tapestry and bits of old Indian and Persian fabrics are in demand for handbags. They are mounted on silver or metal frames, and cords and tassels of harmonizing colors are used. They are carried with semi-dress costumes.

IF YOU ARE WELL BRED

You dress appropriately for all occasions and you remember that a display of diamonds or jewels with street costumes is not good form though it has recently become the custom with many women to wear their jewels throughout the day.

Likewise the woman of taste does not neglect to make a careful toilette in the morning so that she may receive any unexpected callers without embarrassment.

GERMAN GAS, SHELL SHOCK, DRINK AND DRUGS DID TRICK

Wife Exonerated from All Responsibility in Connection With Husband's Death

Montreal, Oct. 23—German gas, shell shock, drink and narcotic drugs are blamed for the life and death of William Pocklington, 33 years old, a veteran of the Great War, who died, suddenly, at St. Anne de Bellevue yesterday. Pocklington's death was investigated by the coroner's court this morning when two of his maiden aunts charged his wife with having contributed to his death by striking him over the head with a baseball bat during a recent quarrel.

At the inquest, Mrs. Pocklington produced evidence to show that her husband had been addicted to drugs for several years, had been a drunkard all his life, was a victim of German gas and shell shock, and had capped his life by making a bigamous marriage with a girl while he was overseas.

Grain Shipments Through This Port

Board of Trade Taking Up Matter With C. P. R. and C. N. R. Regarding Plans.

The local Board of Trade has been taking up the matter of grain shipments through this port with the C. P. R. and the C. N. R. and has received a communication from the C. P. R. giving an outline of plans. The letter states that the first shipments would be made during the first half of November and that movements of grain from Port William to St. John would commence about November 1. The matter has also been discussed with Commissioner Bullock and it was said he had promised to co-operate in every way to make this winter port season a success. A suggestion that Pier No. 1 on the west side should be utilized for grain shipments has been discussed and was said to be highly advisable. The communication from the C. P. R. gave the figures for two of the highest years as 19,867,911 bushels for 1918 and 19,866,672 bushels for 1919. The only year in which Pier No. 1 was utilized for grain was in 1919 and this was taken as an indication that its use facilitated easy and quick loading.

The letter also stated that the C. P. R. intended to make the grain movements through St. John as large as the capacity of the port would admit. Both elevators on the west side are reported in first-class condition and will be run as close to capacity as possible.
