Among the hostesses in Montreal who are entertaining for Lady Macmaster are Mrs. S. P. Stearns, Mrs. Sise, Sherbrooke street west, and Miss Dow, all familiar names to the people of t. Andrews-by-the-sea. Lady Macmaster, who was at one time a regular visitor in St. Andrewsby-the-sea, is a guest at the Ritz Carleton while visiting in Montreal, her former home

Mrs. D. Wagner, of St. Thomas, Ontario, whose son, Lt. Archie Wagner was killed in the war at Vimy Ridge, in April, 1917, was very surprised and pleased to receive a Bible that had been her son's. The sender did not disclose his or her identity and no clue was given, whereby the grateful mother could express her appreciation. The package arived just a few days ago.

The gift was to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of his labors in the ministry. He sent a most appreciative letter through the Wesleyan.

◈ ◈ ◈

Mr. Lee Lawson, technical director of the Blue Water film, that was begun here, but has to be completed elsewhere, on account of the cold weather, left on Saturday evening for Florida, where the out door scenes will be enacted and pictured. Mr. Lawson spoke most regretfully about the loss of the personal element that the company had hoped to incorporate into its work by the introduction of a local woman as iurse in one of the films, but which was impossible, because of the cold that came much earlier than the managers had thought possible. The wet weather upset their plans at the first, when they had planned to do all the outdoor work heer, so they put up their apparatus in the St. Andrew's rink, and when established could not make any change, without great inconvenience and cost. The St. John people will regret this disappointment, as it was a matter for great commendation that Mrs. A. C. D. Wilson had been chosen to take part in the work, and quite apart from the inconvenience, which has been considerable to herself, there is general regret that she will not appar, as she is so competent to fill any position that calls for dramatic art.

The Misses Katherine and Beryl Blanch and Raye Wilson, who have been visiting in New York for two weeks, on vacation, have returned home.

As so many of the fiirls were absent during the holiday, the remainder at the Y. W. C. A. spent a quiet homelike Thanksgiving day with their delightful friend the general secretary, Mrs. Percival Foster. She reports a happy day, very restful, that is sending the gfiirls out refreshed for their duties today. Miss Pauline Baird, the capable house mother, was away yesterday for the holiday, spending it with friends.

Miss Alice Hea, organist of Centenary church, who has been very ill, is slowly convalescing and is now able to see a few of her friends. She is greatly missed in the work of the church. During her absence the organ is being played by Mr. T. C. Cochrane, of the eGrmain street Baptist church, a very fine performer and highly esteemed in the musical life of the city.

Ribbon Hats

Ribbon-trimmed hats were never more popular than now. Satin, moire, picot-edged, double-faced and brocaded ribbons are used to fashion the soft little hats that are so becoming. If the hat itself is of velvet or silk it is quite likely to have a large ribbon bow for trimming.

Where shall we shop today?

The new and individual touches always reflected by a D'Allaird blouse are here in abundance for you now. I noticed particularly two beautiful blouses of canton crepe waiting for your approval. One shows the Bulgarian trimming which is so very popular at the pr sent time and the other features bright red beads—hundreds of them, tracing pretty patterns all over the blouse ven to the neck which really should be worn high. There's another pretty beaded blouse too—sand in color—trimmed with dark green and a sort of pinkish brown beads although this blouse finds room for some silk embroidery in shades of brown and pale green.

What you really will love are the heavy glove silk night dresses in palest mauve and pink, which have only just arrived. Then there are nightdresses of cre pe de chene too in delicate flesh colors trimmed with dainty real lace.

The bridal sets are worthy of every consideration. In some of these there are four pieces featured in others only two. They come in white satin, in pale pink and mauve crepes and at least one set should be found in the trousseau of every bride.

Then there are camisoles and undies some lace trimmed, others plain, in dainty colors you will love. Whether you are a bride or not you will want to treat yourself to some of these.

BATTLE BETWEEN COATS AND CAPES ENDS IN A TRUCE

The case of capes vs. coats has been settled satisfactorily for both factions.

Cape win! Coats win! Other seasons' fashion has refused to be divided. It must be one or the ohter. This season both are to be worn.

The coat pictured blouses at the waist and droops from the shoulder wrapily—but that is due to the very new sleeve.

Collars this winter are high, more for smartness than for warmth, yet fashion is to be thanked for combining the two.

For those who like the comfortable voluminous folds of a cape there is the style illustrated. Panel-like trimmings are the real reason for its very popular and fashionable exiestence.
