Bristol.

The Trotting Park at Bristol does not appear to be going on as well as might be. One of the promoters; and one of the foremost of them too, has 'funkt' out of it, and cooled down, though at one time red-hot for the establishment of the park. However, he has lost his heat, and gives as a reason: that he has embraced religion; and cannot believe that horse-racing and religion can occupy the same quarters. We would suppose that they are somewhat antagonistic, but not to any serious extent, especially if people would only realise that "To the pure, all things are pure" and that being the case, a trial of speed between two more horses, if conducted in a straightforward, honest manner; need not clash much, with a man's religious principles. There are Bristolians who scout the idea of this individual's conscientious scruples and say, that is his pocket, and not his religion, that is in danger; and that his 'o'er canny regard for the bawbees' has more influence than his religious convictions. We have no desire to criticise any man's opinion on such matters, but it seems almost a pity that he did not become a christian before pledging himself to the trotting park association it would have saved some unpleasantness.

A Grand Ball is advertised to be held in the New Public Hall, on the evening of Easter Monday, 15th, of April. We have previously referred to the enjoyable dances that have been carried on in that hall during the winter, and from what we know of previous dances, feel quite safe in saying, that the ball advertised will be as enjoyable as good music, good company, and a good hall can make it.

Wanted to be Safe,

A story is told of an old lady in Centreville, who was in some trepidation as to the state of her soul. She joined the Methodists, but not feeling quite safe, she went over to the Baptists, was duly immersed, and received into the bosom of the church.

After some short time she went to the Pastor in great trouble and said: Oh, Mr. Kayle, am I quite safe?

The Pastor replied: My good sister, you have been sprinkled, you have been immersed, what more do you want?

Oh, Mr. Kayle, Mr. Kayle, I want to be circumcised.

So hard the times on us have borne
That luxuries are few,
And last year's overcoats are worn,
And pretty well worn, too.

The microbe wafted on the breeze,
Now makes his annual trip.
And when the folks begin to sneeze,
We know he's brought his grip.

A FEW DOSES OF THE

GRANGER CONDITION POWDER

WILL repay many times the price of a package of the Granger. For Horses and Cattle, Sheep and Poultry, they are worth their weight in gold. They help digestion and assimilation of food, remove fever, and all impurities that cause loss of appetite, thick water, distemper, cough, bad blood, &c., in Horses and Cattle. The fact that thousands of packages sold annually throughout the Maritime Provinces proves that the

She (bitterly): "Before you married me I was an angel. I'll never be that again, I suppose." He (sarcastically): "Well, I live in hopes."

The man who boasts that he works with head instead of his hands is respectfully reminded that the woodpecker does the same, and is a great bore at that.
