

The Grand Falls Gazette

GRAND FALLS, NEW BRUNSWICK, THURSDAY, AUGUST 14, 1930

PRICE FIVE CENTS

NUMBER 50

VOLUME THREE

Baseball

The Aroostook fence busters (self-styled) obtained a nice victory from the Perth aggregation on Wednesday evening.

The game, although infested with errors and loose ball playing, also had its high spots, including McCully's sensational catch in left field, London's home run and last but not least, Flewelling's complete control of the game at all times.

The batteries were: Perth, Chalmers and Lewis; Aroostook, Flewelling and Phelps. Score, Aroostook 7; Perth 4.

The Fort Fairfield team played in Perth on Friday and after a good game lost to Perth. The score was Perth, 1; Fort Fairfield, 0. The Fort Fairfield seniors will play again Friday evening August 15, at Perth.

The Perth Junior team defeated the Indians from Malcote on Wednesday evening, August 6.

FORMER N. B. MAN MOBBED IN CAMBRIDGE, MASS.

Wife Said to be a Former Perth Resident

Allan C. T. MacPherson, formerly of Hampton, N. B., was mobbed by a group of men in Cambridge, Mass., on Monday afternoon. His brother was also injured.

It was reported in despatches that Mrs. MacPherson, who with two children survives her husband, was a native of Perth, but local investigation has not revealed definitely what her maiden name was, although it is said that she was a McConnell. It is true that a Miss Margaret McConnell, of Bon Accord, married a David MacPherson.

DELIGHTFUL SHOWER

Mrs. Adelaide Bellefleur, Mrs. E. M. White, Mrs. W. V. Powers and Mrs. H. L. Mulhern were joint hostesses of a lovely shower held in the Massey hall, Grand Falls, Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Beatrice McCormick.

The hall was prettily decorated with pink and blue streamers, and in the centre of the room was a table decorated in pink and blue on which was a beautiful china dinner set and lovely bed linen and other lovely gifts.

Music and dancing were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The guests included Mrs. L. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Tanylin, New Denmark; Mrs. C. A. Estey, Mrs. G. H. Lowery, Mr. and Mrs. Bert White, Mrs. Walter St. Thomas, Mrs. Burton Olmstead, Mr. and Mrs. Meigner Costigan, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lesquesne, Mrs. James Gidue, of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kern, Mrs. O. B. Davis, Mrs. Frank Estey, Golden, B. C., Mrs. D. J. Collins, Mrs. William Poitras, Mr. D. J. Collins, Mrs. William Poitras, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jovin, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bell, Mrs. Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. M. F. McCluskey, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cyr, Limestone, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Rioux, Limestone, Mr. and Mrs. George Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. George McCluskey, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bachman, Bristol, Conn., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oliver, Mrs. Neil Gillespie, Mr. and Mrs. Ford Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Merritt, Mrs. Phillip Maloney, New York, Mr. and Mrs. William Rossignol, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Butler, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McCluskey, Mrs. W. B. Estey, Mrs. Ed. McCluskey, Mrs. Annie McCormack, Miss Bernice Poitras, Miss Yvonne Berube, Miss Helen Michaud, Miss Mildred Martin, Miss Ida McCluskey, Miss Christina Hunter, Miss Anita Lezacy, Miss Blanche Legacy, Miss Mary Desjardins, Miss Laura St. Thomas, Miss Marion McLeod, Miss Alma Rivard, Miss Martha Gagnon, Miss Theresa Martin, Miss Mable Mockler, Miss Cecelia Martin, Miss Rose McCormack, Miss Dora Burgess, Messrs. Fred Taylor, Lawrence Berube, W. M. Estey, Conrad Jensen, Leo McCarthy, Limestone, Luman Muehall, Frank Armstrong, Guy O'Regan, Leigh White, Camille Dumas.

Among those who were not present but were given a dinner set were Mrs. Herb Koven, Mrs. F. K. Kerston, Mrs. J. L. White, Mrs. C. G. Guy, Mrs. Clarence Bidsont, Mrs. F. W. Olmstead, Mrs. Chester McCluskey, Miss Eva Powers, Miss Marie Toner, Mrs. F. Taylor, Mrs. Camille Voret, Mrs. Mary McCann, Mrs. C. A. Kirkpatrick, Miss Esther Haley, Mrs. H. E. Wiley, Mrs. Sevena Burgess, Mrs. Angus McLeod, M. J. Kelley, Messrs. Ambrose Toner, V. J. Leonard, Aubrey Hanson, Gordon Christophersen, A. G. Hallett, Gerald Rouleau.

INJURES HAND

William Smith, the well known Fort Fairfield horseman, while on his way to Woodstock from Presque Isle by train with Bonnie M., George W. Reid's fast racer, got his hand injured in the car door at Aroostook Junction, two cars having broken away while the shifting was going on. His hand was also cut considerably.

SCOUT SUNDAY SERVICE

The Boy Scouts of Victoria County who are encamped in the Boy Scout Camp at Oxbow, were at home to their parents and friends on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 10. A Scouts' service was held at which Cub. Comm. Duch of Fredericton, was the speaker. Prof. Duch in his address outlined the principles of Scouting, he also spoke of the Tomahawk and pointed out the fact that the great statesmen looked to the Boy Scout movement as the Junior League of Nations.

The Scout Camp has 72 boys enrolled from all parts of the County and is under the direction of Dist. Comm. Clarke and Cubmaster Clark.

TAIT-McPHAIL

The marriage of Mary, daughter of the late J. W. McPhail and of Mrs. McPhail, of Perth, to LeBaron E. Tait, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Tait, Charlottetown, P. E. I., took place Tuesday evening, August 12th, at half after six o'clock at the residence of the bride's mother, the Rev. Gordon Pringle officiating. The living room where the ceremony took place was attractively decorated with sweet peas and gladioli in pastel shades. The bride's table in the dining room was decorated with pink sweet peas and ivory tapers in silver candle sticks.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, H. W. McPhail, she wore a gown of eggshell satin fashioned on long princess lines, her veil of tulle, arranged in cap effect, edged with Brussels lace and held in place with clusters of orange blossoms, she wore eggshell satin slippers and carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. D. R. Rogers, sister of the bride, was gowned in green chiffon and tulle with crepe de chene slippers of the same shade and carried a shower bouquet of sunset roses. The flower girl, Miss Marie McPhail, niece of the bride, wore a Kate Greenway frock of pink organdy and carried an old fashioned nosegay. The pages, Master Mac Rogers and Billy McPhail, were in suits of black velvet with eggshell satin blouses.

Mr. Allison Tait, brother of the groom, attended as best man. Miss Louise Blakslee played the wedding music and accompanied Miss Doris Tait who sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

After the reception lunch was served, Mrs. Douglas Baird and Mrs. John Ogilvy poured, Mrs. C. L. Olmstead cut the ices, Mrs. Norval McPhail replenished. Those who served were Mrs. H. W. McPhail, Misses Doris Tait, Myrtle Moffatt, Isabel Olmstead, Marion McPhail and Gordon McPhail of Woodstock, Mr. Archie McPhail, Sr., Miss Katherine Sheriffs and Mr. Alex Sheriffs, of Bon Accord.

DUNCAN-WAGHORNE

At the First Baptist Church, Brantford, Ontario, Miss Dorothy Waghorne, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Waghorne, of Brantford, and J. Gordon Duncan, second son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Duncan, of Hamilton, Ontario, were united in marriage on August 2, at 2 o'clock.

The officiating clergymen were Dr. W. H. Langton, of the First Baptist Church of Brantford, and Rev. H. C. Newcombe, of Toronto. The bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Madeline and Muriel, and the flower girl, Miss Connie Bates, a cousin of the bride. William J. Duncan, brother of the groom, was the best man.

The bride looked charming in white satin faced crepe with veil and orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of madonna lilies.

Miss Muriel Waghorne sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Echo Place, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Waghorne assisting in receiving.

The happy couple left immediately after the reception for a short honeymoon trip, stopping at various points of interest on their way to Aroostook, N. B., where they will reside. For travelling the bride wore a rose beige ensemble with matching accessories. Mr. Duncan is the pastor of the Aroostook, Ortonville and Grand Falls circuit of United Baptist Churches.

DIRECTORS OF GRAND FALLS CEMETERY COMPANY MEET

A meeting of the directors of the Grand Falls Union Cemetery Co., Ltd. was held at the home of J. L. White, on Saturday, Aug. 9th.

Officers elected as follows: J. L. White, President; F. W. Warnock, Vice President; C. A. Estey, Sect. Treas.; and other directors elected were O. B. Davis and L. H. Larsen.

The company is proceeding with the work of beautifying and placing in order the cemetery on the flat.

CONTRACT LET FOR GRAND FALLS BRIDGE

Contracts for five more new high-way bridges for the improvement of New Brunswick's highways system have been awarded by Hon. D. A. Stewart, Minister of Public Works.

The most important of the five new structures is the Little River (Mouth) Bridge of the Trans-Canada highway at the town of Grand Falls, parish of Drummond, Victoria County, for which the contract has been awarded to Smith & Williamson, West Saint John, the approximate price being $16,600. This structure will consist of an 80 foot reinforced concrete arch on ledge rock foundation, with stone and earth embankment approaches thereto, the new work covering a total length of 772 feet. This bridge replaces a 75 foot covered Howe truss span on cribwork abutment. The alignment of the new roadway is practically on the same site as the old bridge.

SOUTH TILLEY W. I.

The August meeting of the W. I. was held in the hall here on the 7th, with 9 members and four visitors present. One new member was added.

After the usual reading of the minutes of the last meeting and correspondence by the secretary, some unfinished business was completed. It was agreed that a donation of a certain amount of money be given Miss Langen to go toward a piece of furniture for her hospital.

A discussion followed on the Free Fair, but definite plans were to be made at a special meeting.

A contest was won by Mrs. Walker. After the meeting a delicious supper was served by the members.

FIVE FINE FISHERMEN

A party of would be fishermen left Grand Falls on Thursday, July 30th. All being fed up on the election, they decided to hit the Restigouche and take their revenge on the salmon.

The party consisted of W. F. McCluskey, retired C. P. R. Engineer, Al-Clan McLaughlin, Jr., employee of the St. John River Power Co., Guy O'Regan, professor at Bathurst College, R. W. McCluskey, restaurant proprietor, and Manzer Porterfield, Jr., otherwise known as "Unconscious."

Leaving Seigas, the party travelled the long 8 miles to the Restigouche, where their canoes were launched.

The first day out McLaughlin hooked a salmon, of course he had to use some one else's rod and this one happened to be O'Regan's. After trying for about 15 minutes to land the salmon, he got tired and as in a habit with salmon, this one jumped and broke water, McLaughlin not being an expert fisherman and not knowing what to do, let his rod nearly touch the water and then tried to give it a pry back as though he was landing a trout, with this result O'Regan finished fishing before he had started, as the pole broke off short as McLaughlin pulled and he also lost the salmon.

In the rear canoe were W. F. McCluskey, who insisted on steering, Manzer Potterfield and R. W. McCluskey, who knew the route just one trip previous, coming to a stretch of water that was very swift where a tree grew out over the water, W. F. tried to steer around it, the head end of the canoe got by but he could not get the stern by in time, so he snatched a limb of the tree, having the paddle in one hand, the limb of the tree in the other, his pipe in his mouth, he was hand-capped to such an extent that the limb whipped back, lifting him out of the canoe and setting him down in the swift water where he could not regain his footing. Not daring to drop the pipe, as it was the only smoking he had, not daring to drop the paddle, as he knew it would be lost, and not daring to let go of the tree, as he would be lost, he hung on to all three for dear life. After 10 minutes of persistent endeavor he at last managed to get his feet on bottom and waded ashore, but not before he had received a severe ducking.

O'Regan in the meantime was having his trouble, McLaughlin trying to steer the flanger alone did not see the stump of tree in the middle of the river and the result was that when the boat hit the stump, O'Regan, who was not expecting anything of this kind, lost his balance, fell overboard and had to swim ashore, this being 8 o'clock in the morning of second day out. The two old friends, McLaughlin and O'Regan, remained all day and only recognizing their friendship when camp was made on the Guanamiy Bar and summer was being cooked.

McLaughlin not being frightened of anything (but still wearing a 45 Colt and always carrying it with him even when he went for water and cleaning with it alongside his head) fired at imaginary animals quite a few times just to keep practicing.

McLaughlin then tried his luck fishing. He hooked a salmon and being so pleased he would not wait for one of his party to help him land it and tried to pull the salmon into the boat (who-ther it was for the purpose of scratching its ears or rubbing its nose, we do not know) but another salmon got away.

W. F. McCluskey, in the meantime, caught his first salmon of the trip. The following morning the party dropped down to Boston Brook and camped with the genial old Warden, Reuben Chesser, O'Regan, Porterfield and Raymond decided to try fishing trout in Boston Brook, while W. F. and McLaughlin fished for salmon. After fishing up the brook all morning and having quite a stream of trout, Raymond decided they were too heavy to carry and put them in the brook weighted down with rocks, intending to pick them up on his way down. About noon he turned back for camp and forgetting all about where he had cached his fish, he got nearly to camp before he again thought of them, so the result was four dozen nice trout are still on a stringer weighted down with rocks to hold them in Boston Brook.

He then took up salmon fishing and along in the afternoon landed two salmon within fifteen minutes of each other.

W. F. had caught a large one about one mile down and McLaughlin had at last, after breaking all the rods he and O'Regan had with them, caught two salmon with a rod borrowed from the Warden.

Leaving this camp the next afternoon so as to be well on the way to Kedgwick, they stopped at Jor Finos' over night. O'Regan and W. F. slept in the house, while McLaughlin, R. W. and "Unconscious" slept in the barn on the new mown hay. During the night a heavy thunderstorm came up and the rain began to come through the roof of the barn. The ones sleeping there had to move their bedding to some place where the rain was not coming in, while playing the flashlight around, McLaughlin saw a large bat, and being of a cautious nature and forgetting the 45 Colt, he scratched up the hay for dear life, making a large hole and crawled into it.

Next morning at day break the party set out for Kedgwick. After getting 2 1/2 miles down the river, McLaughlin discovered he had left his 45 back in the hay mow, he got out of the boat and walked back to the farmhouse, making the record time of five miles an hour through the brush.

After reaching Kedgwick, McLaughlin, who also had a camera with him, and who had taken some prize pictures on this trip, forgot his camera on the station platform (this was natural as he had to look after all of both his and O'Regan's luggage, as O'Regan was too busy looking for his lady friends) one of the boys found the camera and as a joke did not tell him anything about it. After the train was well under way, someone mentioned the camera, McLaughlin nearly went frantic when he discovered the loss and had the conductor, brakemen and all the railway officials on the lookout for it, until at last as they neared St. Quentin the camera showed up.

One of the crowd suggested that he tie a heavy chain around his neck with all of his outfit attached so he cannot leave any of it behind when he makes the trip next year.

The party landed home at 7 p. m., tired, but satisfied that it was a wonderful trip down the Restigouche.

MRS. BERT TAPLIN HOSTESS TO MANY CANADIAN FRIENDS

A delightful manner of entertaining a group of friends, formerly of Grand Falls, N. B., Canada, and now residing in the Southland, was chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taplin when a number met at their home on Live Oak Street, Fontana, California, recently to spend the day, being served a sumptuous dinner in true picnic style on the large lawn fronting the house.

The afternoon was spent in a jolly manner reheating old acquaintanceship and many delightful anecdotes were told much to the amusement of all.

Previous to their departure for their various homes, all expressed their gratitude to the host and hostess for giving them the privilege of greeting so many old time friends.

Those invited were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. White, of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Blodgett, Los Angeles, Miss Beesie Lawson, Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Laskar, Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McCluskey and sons, Paul and Lewis, of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Ludgate and son, Leon, and wife and two daughters, of Pasadena, Mrs. Ed. Leslie and daughter, Pearl Leslie, R. N., Gordon Leslie, D'Arcy Costigan, of Los Angeles, Mrs. H. Todd, Santa Monica, Dr. and Mrs. Seargey Kaasen, Hollywood, Miss Florence Gilbert, R. N., formerly of Sidney, N. S., and now of Los Angeles, Thomas Bishop, of Pasadena.

Mrs. Taplin was formerly Miss Helen Costigan.

AROOSTOOK BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

The annual picnic of the United Baptist Sunday School, Aroostook, was held on Tuesday afternoon.

A truck and several cars conveyed the children and adults to Upper Kent where the picnic was held on the camp grounds. Over 90 persons were present. Games and races were enjoyed preceding the picnic supper.

HARVESTING IS WELL UNDER WAY

Harvesting in the west has begun. Though the reapers are not generally at work until August is well under way, individual farmers in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan have started their wheat cutting. Coarse grains, of course, are already being harvested throughout the west.

ther it was for the purpose of scratching its ears or rubbing its nose, we do not know) but another salmon got away.

W. F. McCluskey, in the meantime, caught his first salmon of the trip. The following morning the party dropped down to Boston Brook and camped with the genial old Warden, Reuben Chesser, O'Regan, Porterfield and Raymond decided to try fishing trout in Boston Brook, while W. F. and McLaughlin fished for salmon. After fishing up the brook all morning and having quite a stream of trout, Raymond decided they were too heavy to carry and put them in the brook weighted down with rocks, intending to pick them up on his way down. About noon he turned back for camp and forgetting all about where he had cached his fish, he got nearly to camp before he again thought of them, so the result was four dozen nice trout are still on a stringer weighted down with rocks to hold them in Boston Brook.

He then took up salmon fishing and along in the afternoon landed two salmon within fifteen minutes of each other.

W. F. had caught a large one about one mile down and McLaughlin had at last, after breaking all the rods he and O'Regan had with them, caught two salmon with a rod borrowed from the Warden.

Leaving this camp the next afternoon so as to be well on the way to Kedgwick, they stopped at Jor Finos' over night. O'Regan and W. F. slept in the house, while McLaughlin, R. W. and "Unconscious" slept in the barn on the new mown hay. During the night a heavy thunderstorm came up and the rain began to come through the roof of the barn. The ones sleeping there had to move their bedding to some place where the rain was not coming in, while playing the flashlight around, McLaughlin saw a large bat, and being of a cautious nature and forgetting the 45 Colt, he scratched up the hay for dear life, making a large hole and crawled into it.

Next morning at day break the party set out for Kedgwick. After getting 2 1/2 miles down the river, McLaughlin discovered he had left his 45 back in the hay mow, he got out of the boat and walked back to the farmhouse, making the record time of five miles an hour through the brush.

After reaching Kedgwick, McLaughlin, who also had a camera with him, and who had taken some prize pictures on this trip, forgot his camera on the station platform (this was natural as he had to look after all of both his and O'Regan's luggage, as O'Regan was too busy looking for his lady friends) one of the boys found the camera and as a joke did not tell him anything about it. After the train was well under way, someone mentioned the camera, McLaughlin nearly went frantic when he discovered the loss and had the conductor, brakemen and all the railway officials on the lookout for it, until at last as they neared St. Quentin the camera showed up.

One of the crowd suggested that he tie a heavy chain around his neck with all of his outfit attached so he cannot leave any of it behind when he makes the trip next year.

The party landed home at 7 p. m., tired, but satisfied that it was a wonderful trip down the Restigouche.

ther it was for the purpose of scratching its ears or rubbing its nose, we do not know) but another salmon got away.

W. F. McCluskey, in the meantime, caught his first salmon of the trip. The following morning the party dropped down to Boston Brook and camped with the genial old Warden, Reuben Chesser, O'Regan, Porterfield and Raymond decided to try fishing trout in Boston Brook, while W. F. and McLaughlin fished for salmon. After fishing up the brook all morning and having quite a stream of trout, Raymond decided they were too heavy to carry and put them in the brook weighted down with rocks to hold them in Boston Brook.

He then took up salmon fishing and along in the afternoon landed two salmon within fifteen minutes of each other.

W. F. had caught a large one about one mile down and McLaughlin had at last, after breaking all the rods he and O'Regan had with them, caught two salmon with a rod borrowed from the Warden.

Leaving this camp the next afternoon so as to be well on the way to Kedgwick, they stopped at Jor Finos' over night. O'Regan and W. F. slept in the house, while McLaughlin, R. W. and "Unconscious" slept in the barn on the new mown hay. During the night a heavy thunderstorm came up and the rain began to come through the roof of the barn. The ones sleeping there had to move their bedding to some place where the rain was not coming in, while playing the flashlight around, McLaughlin saw a large bat, and being of a cautious nature and forgetting the 45 Colt, he scratched up the hay for dear life, making a large hole and crawled into it.

Next morning at day break the party set out for Kedgwick. After getting 2 1/2 miles down the river, McLaughlin discovered he had left his 45 back in the hay mow, he got out of the boat and walked back to the farmhouse, making the record time of five miles an hour through the brush.

After reaching Kedgwick, McLaughlin, who also had a camera with him, and who had taken some prize pictures on this trip, forgot his camera on the station platform (this was natural as he had to look after all of both his and O'Regan's luggage, as O'Regan was too busy looking for his lady friends) one of the boys found the camera and as a joke did not tell him anything about it. After the train was well under way, someone mentioned the camera, McLaughlin nearly went frantic when he discovered the loss and had the conductor, brakemen and all the railway officials on the lookout for it, until at last as they neared St. Quentin the camera showed up.

One of the crowd suggested that he tie a heavy chain around his neck with all of his outfit attached so he cannot leave any of it behind when he makes the trip next year.

The party landed home at 7 p. m., tired, but satisfied that it was a wonderful trip down the Restigouche.

TRUCK WITH LOAD OF LOGS OVERTURNS

At Aroostook Bridge

A truck with two men, carrying as a load a number of logs, overturned at the west or south end of Aroostook bridge on Monday. The truck was proceeding north and after coming down the hill from the railroad crossing could not make the turn at the speed it was travelling and on the turn going onto the bridge went over the embankment.

Considerable damage resulted. It is said that the brakes were defective or were not applied sufficiently.

U. S. TOURIST TRAVEL TO NEW BRUNSWICK

An increase of 58 per cent. in motor tourist travel from the United States to New Brunswick is shown in statistics for the 1930 season up to July 31st as compared with the same period of last year, according to a compilation by the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information and Tourist Travel from returns from Canadian Customs Collectors at the 24 ports of entry along the International Boundary in this province showing the number of permits issued for American tourists' cars.

The following figures show the number of tourists' cars for which permits were issued by Canadian Customs Collectors at Edmundston, Grand Falls and Andover; for periods exceeding 24 hours but not exceeding 60 days:

Year	Edmundston	Grand Falls	Andover
1930	2,176	2,380	2,094
1929	1,051	696	596

The total for the province was for this year to date: 22,592; for last year, 14,227.

Two Motor Vehicles Burn

Wednesday evening two motor vehicles, a Ford coupe and a truck, were destroyed by fire near Perth. The coupe belonged to Douglas Davidson, of Coronation, and took fire on the highway below Perth.

A young man, a DeMerchant, of Tilley, was driving the truck along the road near the Anglican cemetery, above Church Hill, Andover, when fire started around the foot board. After the fire it was a total wreck with the exception of the box.

SHELDON GREEN SENT UP FOR TRIAL

At a hearing in Magistrate's court, Perth, on Wednesday, Sheldon Green, charged with resisting a customs and excise officer, Charles Looze, at Andover, in July, 1928, was sent up for trial in September by Magistrate Hanson.

FAMILY REUNION

A most delightful family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Belanger, Grand Falls, on Sunday. A sumptuous dinner was served by the mother, Mrs. Belanger, and their eleven children gathered around the table once more. After dinner pictures were taken of the family group.

The family includes Mr. and Mrs. Belanger (parents), 6 daughters, Mrs. Alice Oulette, Mrs. Louis Beaulieu (Annie), Mrs. Joseph McClure (Estelita), Mrs. Baptiste Lavois (Alexina), Mrs. Edward Graves (Roseanna), Boston, Mrs. Yvonne Gagnon, of Lewiston; five sons, Emile, of Van Buren, Arthur, George and Alclarde, of Grand Falls, and Gerald, of Van Buren.

This Is Addressed to You

Many Insurance Companies Pay the Same Amount for LOSS OF SIGHT as for Loss of Life.

POOR EYESIGHT is as Great a Handicap as Poor Health and is Often the Cause of Poor Health. Therefore You Cannot Afford to NEGLECT YOUR EYES.

I Beg to Advise You I Use the Most MODERN METHODS and Equipment When Examining the Eyes and Carry the Best and Latest in Frames and Lenses.

Your Comfort Is of More Importance to Me Than the price You Pay

If you are now wearing an old bent frame, I suggest you allow me to supply a correct fitting frame. All repair work sent direct to the factory and returned in Three Days, at no greater cost to you.

H. E. WILEY.

REGISTERED OPTOMETRIST
GRAND FALLS, N. B. Phone 45-2

SPECIALTY THEATRE

ANDOVER, N. B.

Friday and Saturday, August 15-16

If you like mystery and suspense don't miss this outstanding picture. Thrills galore!

DUNCAN LEWIS, Andover, and Friend, GUEST OF THE NEWS, Saturday, August 16. Bring This Advertisement.

H. N. DICKINSON, Perth, and Friend, Guest of THE NEWS, Friday, August 15th. Bring This Advertisement.

(Continued on page eight)