FREDERICTON JULY 3, 1880.

THE CROWN LANDS SETTLEMENT.

The Surveyor General has now made a tour of his settlements, and though he is authorized to expend only $8,000, his settlers are satisfied that he has done the very best he can, and that in making grants and distributions he has treated all fairly. Last year's Crown Land Report told a hopeful story of our Crown Settlements; this year though the grant has been less, the official accounts promise to be equally as encouraging.

There is a great deal in having "the right man in the right place," in having a public officer who is not afraid that he will wet his boots and soil his gloves, but who will personally visit the people under his keeping, and from themselves learn what their requirements are. Official reports, and commissioner's accounts are all very well in their way, but in our opinion the proper method is for the responsible head to see for himself. This Mr. Adams has done, penetrating tangled woods, and walking over swampy roads, and from what he has seen himself, regulating his expenditures. It is encouraging, too, if nothing else, to the poor creature, buried in the woods and seldom hearing a sound from civilization, to be visited once a year by the head of the Crown land department, and to him to tell his grievances and his hopes, and to be encouraged on the work he has begun.

The pity is that more can not be expended on those who have gone into the wilderness to carve out their homes; instead of wasting it on useless enterprises. We don't think the Government extravagant at all, but we do think neither the Government nor the Legislature give half attention enough to the settlement of our ungranted lands, and the improvement of our new-formed colonies. In days gone by when no other Province set itself up as a rival for European immigration, it was different from now, and so much exertion was not needed by our Government; but now the shifless thousands are attracted to the fertile and boundless north-west while only now and again a straggler settles down in our uncouth forests. The Government of this Province should seek to stimulate the best interests of the Province—to make their lands as attractive and their terms as accommodating as it is possible for them to do, else in a few years poor New Brunswick will be sadly in the background. We may say, that all which is possible for the Surveyor General as an officer to do in this regard, he has done and is doing.

DOMINION DAY IN THE SUPREME COURT.

On Thursday last the Supreme Court sat and heard cases and delivered judgments. Thursday was Dominion Day; and it was kept sacred to the memory of the Legislature which consolidated the Provinces into one Dominion. That is, it was kept holy by those who believed in Confederation; but was treated with indifference by those who opposed Confederation. Judge Allen, whose name calls up to us everything that is honest, manly and unprejudiced, was in politics when the questions

Confederation or no Confederation were raised. Our present worthy chief then opposed Confederation, so too did the then Mr. Weldon, so too did the then Mr. Duff. They said they would never have any moral respect for Confederation, and they have kept their word. When last Thursday came they sat upon the Bench in judicial harness, and Mr. Thompson labored like a Hercules before them, and Mr. C. Weldon who is to be judge when the Government goes out perspired freely. Judge Fisher had stated his conscientious objections to sitting on Dominion Day, had argued the immoral tendency of sitting in judgment while the nation was en holiday, but finally agreed with his anti-confederate brethren that he would sit and give judgment at any rate. Then he said Judge Fisher chose a substitute, which he sent to St. John to sit at the synod; but shortly afterwards began to repent him of his acts, and made up his mind that as a confederate Judge he oughtn't to sit on the Bench on Thursday; so he went by the morning's train to St. John, and entered the synod as a delegate; but his substitute was there before him and the Judge was rejected. Judge Wetmore, another confederate Justice, adjourned his Nisi Prius Sittings, and turned out with the people to cry out vive la Dominion! No man whether he sits upon the bench or pleads at the bar should ever forget his early principles, or fail to give them the preference when the opportunity offers. Judges Weldon, Allen and Duff were loth to exchange the Union Jack for the Canadian Beaver; they were loth therefore to keep holiday when they were not legally obliged to, though the Marquis of Lorne proclaimed the day idle. Judge Wetmore, however, put his foot down on the nisi prius business, and sauntered out upon the river bank, dreaming over olden times, and again fancifully wielding his sword of sarcasm, while his brothers split legal hairs and expressed judicial disapproval of Confederation.

CUSTOMS RETURN.

The Customs return for the port of Fredericton for the fiscal year ended June 30th, 1880, shows $85,943.10. For the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1879, the return showed $49,830.18, or an increase of revenue for 1879 over 1880 of $13,887.08. This increase of duties collected for last year over this year is easily explained. When a National Policy was spoken of as the policy of the new Government, our merchants imported more largely than usual to be safe before the new tariff came into effect, and consequently an increase of duties for 1879 resulted. But Fredericton has again resumed something like its old-time activity. The past few months of the present year have showed a marked increase of receipts in the Custom House, over those of corresponding months for last year. For the month just ended the receipts have been $2,513.04; for June of 1879 the receipts were $2,469.17, or an increase in June of this year over that of last year of $43.87. This is not much, 'tis true, but it is an evidence of better times.

An Arrapahoe Hunt

REDUCING A BIG HERD OF BUFFALO TO A SKELETON.

[An Army Officer in the Baltimore American.]

While I was endeavoring, perhaps vainly, to convey to you some idea of the appearance of the arrapahoese, the hunting party has made rapid progress, and one of the young warriors, now far in the lead, waving his blanket in a peculiar manner, makes known to the hunters that the herd is near by and taking a certain course would bring up to windward of them. As the distance between the hunters and the herd grows less, the bucks divest themselves of all their clothing save their breechclouts, and the superfluous garments are handed to their squaws for safe keeping, together with the ponies they have been riding, as they now mount the fresh ponies their better halves bring up to them. The old buffalo bull, acting as outmost guard, has heard a sound he cannot explain; he turns to warn the unsuspecting herd of his not altogether groundless fears, when the whole party of Indians, like one man, give the ponies their head, and sweep down on the grazing herd. But not grazing now; for, as if by magic the whole herd becomes aware of the danger, and with heads low and tails erect they are bounding away over the level plain before them at a much faster rate than their lumbering bodies would lead one to suppose possible. The Indians, dashing upon the flanks of the moving column, pour in their deadly fire. Not waiting to see the result, they urge their ponies on, still firing (so near that the barrel of the rifle rests on the buffalo) as fast as they can load, till their ponies pause from exhaustion and the skeleton herd is beyond reach of their weapons. While pursuers and pursued have been thus actively engaged, the squaws have not been idle, for, as the hunt ceases, you find them with their pack animals already on the field where the dead buffalo lie. The bucks, returning, ride down along the dead and dying and point out to their squaws those that have slain, and when the squaw has put her own individual mark upon them she begins her part of the hunt, which is skinning, gutting up and packing. I have seen 500 buffaloes killed in this manner, and I have never yet heard a dispute arise owing to a buck having mistaken an animal he had killed. It would seem as if the dead carcass had "a tongue in every wound" that cried, "Pass me not by; you killed." The squaws are natural butchers. There is not a mis-cut made in removing the robe, nor is one particle of the animal left for the kyotes that can be possibly utilized by these people. From the sinews lying along the back bone (from which the bow strings are made) to the horny hoofs (for which is dissolved a kind of gluten for the preparation of the robes) nothing is wasted. No wonder that it exasperates these provident people to come across the carcasses of hundreds of thousands of buffalo, killed yearly by the white hunters for the hides alone. Not even a tongue gone, nor a slice taken from the favorite lump! There they lie and rot, the food God had provided for them feeding only the kyotes and vultures, the bones standing as a monument to progressive civilization, and as a reminder that the white men are not allowed on the territory.

GRAND FALLS OF THE UPPER SAINT JOHN FOR SPORTSMAN AND TOURIST

THIS Book just published at the "Reporter" office will be found useful not only to those to whom it is especially dedicated, but to all persons who are not acquainted with the Upper St. John, and who are interested in the features of scenery and progress of that interesting country. The Book whilst the haste in which it was prepared will have operated against its perfection, will be found tolerably accurate, in scenic description especially when it is considered that many of the places to which the author has devoted his most graphic pen, which he has clothed in waving verdure and coarsed by merry laughing rivulets, were inspected in mid-winter, when two feet of snow covered the ground, and when the smooth-voiced waters were hoard in fetters of ice.
The Book will be for sale at all Book-stores at 15 Cents a Copy.

Wholesale rates can be ascertained at "Reporter" office.
