WHAT PAYS?

IT PAYS every Manufacturer, Merchant, Mechanic, Inventor, Farmer, or Professional man, to keep informed on all the improvements and discoveries of the age.

It pays the head of every family to introduce into his household a newspaper that is instructive, one that fosters a taste for investigation, and promotes thought and encourages discussion among the members.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, which has been published weekly for the last thirty-one years, does this, to an extent beyond that of any other publication; in fact it is the only weekly paper published in United States, devoted to Manufactures, Mechanics, Inventions and New Discoveries in the Arts and Sciences.

Every number is profusely illustrated and its contents embrace the latest and most interesting information pertaining to the Industrial, Mechanical and Scientific progress of the world; descriptions, with beautiful Engravings of New Inventions, New Implements, New Processes, and Improved Industries of all kinds; Useful Notes, Recipes, Suggestions and Advice by Practical Writers for Workmen and Employers, in all the various arts, forming a complete repertory of New Inventions and Discoveries; containing a weekly record, not only of the progress of the Industrial Arts in our own country, but also of all New Discoveries and Inventions in every branch of Engineering, Mechanics, and Science abroad.

"The Scientific American" has been the foremost of all industrial publications for the past thirty-one years. It is the oldest, cheapest and best weekly illustrated paper devoted to Engineering, Mechanics, Chemistry, New Inventions, Science and Industrial Progress, published in the world.

The practical Recipes are well worth ten times the subscription price, and for the shop and house will save many times the cost of subscription.

Merchants, Farmers, Mechanics, Engineers, Inventors, Manufacturers, Chemists, lovers of Science, and people of all professions, will find the "Scientific American" useful to them. It should have a place in every Family, Library, Study, Office and Counting Room; in every Reading Room, College School. A new volume commences January 1st, 1877.

A year's numbers contains 832 pages and several hundred Engravings. Thousands of volumes are preserved for binding and reference. Terms $3.20 a year, including postage, Discount to Clubs. Special circulars, giving Club rates, sent free. Single copies mailed on receipt of 10 cents. May be had of all News Dealers.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, and have the largest establishment in the world. More than fifty thousand applications have been made for Patents through their agency.

Patents are obtained on the best terms, Models of New Inventions and Sketches examined, and advice free. A special notice is made in the "Scientific American" of all inventions Patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. Patents are often sold in part or whole, to persons attracted to the invention by such notice. A pamphlet, containing full directions for obtaining Patents, sent free. The Scientific American Reference Book, a volume bound in cloth and gilt, containing the Patent Laws, Census of the U. S., and 142 Engravings of mechanical movements. Price 25 cents.

Address for the Paper, or concerning Patents, MUNN & CO., 37 Park Row, New York. Branch Office, cor. F & 7th sts., Washington, D. C. nov30

TAKING THE EDGE OFF.

Last Saturday noon a sort of slouchy-looking, hungry-eyed, cadaverous fellow stepped into a restaurant on Washington street, and said he wanted a cup of coffee and a piece of bread and butter. The waiter told him that the place sold nothing short of a complete dinner and the price was fifty cents. Said the stranger, "Well, you see, I ain't very hungry, and I only want a little coffee and a bit of bread."

Waiter—"It makes no difference; we sell a whole dinner for fifty cents, and nothing else."

Stranger—"You give a hull dinner for fifty cents?"

Waiter—"Yes, a whole dinner; roast meat, potatoes, succotash, bread, butter, pie, pudding, coffee and tea."

Stranger—"Well, I 'spose you give a man all he wants to eat?"

Waiter—"O, yes; we fill you up for fifty cents, and give you a solid, good, meal.

Stranger—"Well, I've got half a mind to eat with ye. The fact is, the ole woman gave me a loaf of bread and a piece of cold corn beef for a bite, and I ate that up here in a saloon jes now with a glass of beer. I thought I'd like a good cup of coffee and a little bread and butter to kind o' wash the thing down; but ye say ye can't gimme that."

Waiter—"No, sir; we'll give you, as I have said, a solid meal for fifty cents. You can eat as little or as much as you please."

The stranger's eyes opened and looked thoughtful a moment, and then, striking his fist upon the table, he exclaimed, "By gum! I b'leeve I'll take it. I ain't right, real hungry but bring on yer roas' beef and taters, suckithash, tea, coffee, bread, pie and puddin'! Bring 'em on. By gum! I'm in for a square meal, and my fifty cents worth."

The waiter hurried to respond, and the way the stranger's knife and fork played between his mouth and the plate was a caution. It beat a half dozen pair of castinets, and sounded more like a bone solo than anything else ever heard. The waiter stood aghast, and when he turned up with a third plate of roast beef, the proprietor, pale as marble from a Vermont quarry, called him aside behind the bar.

"For heaven's sake, who is that fellow?" said he; "he eats victuals as fast as a threshing-machine swallows straw."

The stranger's plates began to show bottom again, and his eyes were running up and down the room for the waiter. He did not stop in his eating, but simply turned his back and let fly against the wall with his heels.

"Gimme more roast beef and taters," he shouted.

The landlord raised his hands in horror.

"Great heavens, James! he'll clean us out," said he, as the waiter sprang for the kitchen.

"Ain't ye got mor'n one kind o' pie?" inquired the stranger.

"Yes," said the waiter.

"Well, then, bring it on, and giv's some o' that pud'n too. Jemimy! if I was only hungry how I'd clean ye out. Bring me two cups of coffee and a cup of tea, too. I ain't only jes beginning to eat."

The landlord listened with dismay, and stopped the waiter as he entered the kitchen for the fifteenth time, walked solemnly up to the stranger and said:

"See here, we ain't got enough in this house to feed you. Just go out now; I will call it all square. You need not pay a cent for what you have had."

The stranger became indignant, and declined, saying that his appetite was just coming, and winding up with a very emphatic:

"Hanged if I will!"

A bright thought struck the landlord as he walked off in mental agony. Hastening to the bar, he jerked open the till, pulled out a half dollar, and rushing up to the stranger, placed it in his hand.

"Here, here," said he, "take this and go right up to the Elliot Coffee Rooms and clean 'em out. Go on, they will feed you till you bust, for twenty-five cents.

"Well," said the stranger, as he gradually rose and stretched himself at the same time putting the scrip in his vest pocket, "I don't mind if I do take it. I ain't very hungry, anyhow, I only wanted a cup of coffee and a piece of bread and butter, when I came in, but I am jes as well satisfied. I guess I'll buy the ole mare some oats, and wait till I get hum to finish up."

Nearly a Marriage in High Life.

WHY IT DID NOT TAKE PLACE.

This age is a fast one, and to make it so, electricity, railroads, telegraphy, and dynamite, have been invented, all fast things. A youth of 15 knows as much at present as his father did at 30, at least he thinks so, and acts accordingly; he smokes cigars, drinks his cocktail, pronounces upon the points of a fine woman, and marries if it so pleases him. A youth between the mature age of 15 and 16 years fell in love last fall with a damsel of 13 or thereabouts, and as the pathetic passages in a dime novel say, his love was returned. This young gentleman lives on Sussex street, while the object of his adoration plays the piano and reads her romances on Wellington. The course of their true love ran as smoothly as the moon around the earth for a while, but lately the father—the tyrannical father—of the youth, suspected something, and he being superstitious and prejudiced according to our new ideas, thought his heir was too young to marry, and so forbade any further intercourse between the afflicted and oppressed lovyers. They then did the usual thing; they arranged clandestine meetings on a plan they read of in the "Lovers' Revenge, or the Bloody Chasm of the Chimboroza Mountains," and they exchanged letters, the following of which is a copy of the most heart-rending:

"DEAREST, MOST BEAUTIFUL,— * * * * * The climax has arrived. I shall submit no longer. I cannot live without you. I shall buy a license and we can get married and fly," and so on.

The lad purchased the license for two dollars, and went yesterday morning, lugging his intended bride around with him to several Catholic clergymen, all of whom, as a matter of course, refused. This decided movement came to the oppressor's ears, who threatened to have him arrested if he did not immediately quit fooling. A gleam of sense crossed the mind of the lad for once, and he tore up the licence and went home, as did the expected partner of his bosom. The parents of both the intended high contracting parties are amongst the most respectable of our citizens.—Ottawa Times.

Rolph, a creditor of John Cummins, late of Moncton, in the County of Westmorland, Merchant, deceased, has prayed that Administration of all and singular the goods, chattels, and credits of said deceased may be granted to him, You are therefore required to cite the said Augustus P Rolph, and all others interested, to appear before me at a Court of Probate to be held at my office at Dorchester, in and for said County, on Friday, the fifteenth day of December next, at noon, to offer what they may have to object to said Administration being granted as prayed for.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court, this 18th day of November, A.D., 1876.

(Signed) ED. B. CHANDLER,
Judge of Probates,
County of Westmorland.

CHARLES E. KNAPP,
Registrar of Probates,

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE;

Or, Self-Preservation.

MORE THAN ONE MILLION COPIES SOLD

Gold Medal Awarded to the Author by the "National Medical Association," March 31, 1876.

JUST published by the PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, a new edition of the celebrated work entitled the "Science of Life; or, Self-Preservation." It treats upon MANHOOD, how lost, how regained and how perpetuated; cause and cure of Exhausted Vitality, Impotency, Premature Decline in Man, Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Losses (nocturnal and diurnal), Nervous and Physical Debility, Hypochondria, Gloomy Forebodings, Mental Depression, Loss of Energy, Haggard Countenance, Confusion of Mind and Loss of Memory, Impure state of the Blood, and all diseases arising from the ERRORS OF YOUTH or the indiscretions or excesses of mature years.

It tells you all about the Morale of Generative Physiology, the Physiology of Marriage, of Wedlock and Offspring, Physical Contrasts, True Morality, Empiricism, Perversion of Marriage, Conjugal Precept and Friendly Counsel, Physical Infirmity, Its Causes and Cure, Relations Between the Sexes, Proofs of the Expansion of Vice, The Miseries of Imprudence, Ancient Ignorance and Errors, MEANS OF CURE, Cure of Body and Mind. TRUE PRINCIPLES OF TREATMENT, Address to Patients and Invalid Readers, The Author's Principles. The price of this book is only $1.

This book also contains MORE THAN FIFTY Prescriptions for the above named and other diseases, each one worth more than the price of the book.

The Institute also publishes "THE PHYSIOLOGY OF WOMAN AND HER DISEASES." Price $2.00. The best book of the kind extant.

Also, another valuable medical work treating exclusively on Mental and Nervous Diseases; more than 200 royal octavo pages, twenty elegant engravings, bound in substantial muslin. Price only $2.00. Barely enough to pay for printing.

"The book for young and middle-aged men to read just now, is the Science of Life, or Self-Preservation. The author has returned from Europe in excellent Health, and is again the Chief Consulting Physician of the Peabody Medical Institute, No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass."—Republican Journal.

"The Science of Life is beyond all comparison the most extraordinary work on Physiology ever published."—Boston Herald.

"Hope nestled in the bottom of Pandora's box, and hope plumes her wings anew, since the issuing of these valuable works, published by the Peabody Medical Institute, which are teaching thousands how to avoid the maladies that sap the citadel of life.—Phil. Enquirer.

"It should be read by the young, the middle-aged, and even the old."—N. Y. Tribune.

The first and only Medal ever conferred upon any Medical Man in this country, as a recognition of skill and professional services, was presented to the author of these works, March 31st, 1876. The presentation was noticed at the time of its occurrence by the Boston Press, and the leading journal throughout the country. This magnificent Medal is of solid gold, set with more than one hundred India diamonds of rare brilliancy.

"Altogether, in its execution and the richness of its materials, and size, this is decidedly the most noticeable medal ever struck in this country for any purpose whatever. It is well worth the inspection of Numismatists. It was fairly won and worthily bestowed."—Massachusetts Ploughman, June 2rd, 1876.

☞ Catalogue sent on receipt of 6 cts. for postage.

Either of the above works sent by mail on receipt of price. Address PEABODY MEDICAL INSTITUTE, (or W. H. PARKER, M. D., Consulting Physician,) No. 4 Bulfinch street, Boston, Mass., opp. Revere House.

N. B. The author can be consulted on the above named diseases, as well as all diseases requiring skill, secrecy and experience. Office hours, 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. aug31
