PREPARE FOR WAR.

Lord Salisbury's Great Speech at the Primrose League Meeting.

"Must Induce the People to Voluntarily Put Themselves in a Position to Defend Their Homes and Country."

LONDON, May 9—The annual grand habitation of the Primrose League was held in Albert hall this afternoon. Lord Salisbury, who presided, commented on the remarkable change which had taken place in the latter half of the century in the views of the people regarding the empire. They had formerly repelled it as a burden, and that doctrine has been carried to such an extent by men of splendid genius—Gladstone—that it had produced a strong reaction, which started after the disaster of Majuba Hill and the death of Gen. Gordon. The death of Gordon had been avenged. Perhaps it was too soon to say the great humiliation of Majuba had been effected or that the great wrong had been righted, but he felt they were on the road to accomplish that end. Under the brilliant guidance of Lord Roberts, 200,000 soldiers, a larger army than had ever before been sent across the same expanse of sea, were now engaged in reducing to obedience to the Queen those territories which ought never to have been released, and to restoring to South Africa the only chance it had of peace, development and tranquility.

"Hereafter external affairs will occupy a considerably larger place among the problems we have to solve. Not necessarily because in themselves they are important; but if we look around we can see the elements and causes of menace and peril slowly accumulating, and they may accumulate to such a point as to require our earnest and most active efforts to repel them.

"I am nervous at using language of such a kind, lest it should be thought I am indicating that something is known to the foreign office by pointing out this possible danger; but I wish most emphatically to say, I have no idea of that kind. The state of affairs as I know it, and so far as the government is concerned, is peaceful. It is impossible to speak too highly of the careful, calm neutrality which has been observed by all the governments of the world."

The premier's remarks were greeted with loud cheers.

Continuing, Lord Salisbury said:

"A certain section of their subjects, not, I hope, a very large, though noisy one, has at the present moment a great prejudice against this country. It does not, however, follow that we have no precautions to take. Governments may come and go and feelings may change from year to year. That root of bitterness against England, which I am unable to explain, may be mere caprice to satisfy the exigencies of journalists today or it may indicate a deep-seated feeling which later, we may have to reckon with. There can be no security nor confidence in the feelings of sympathy of other nations except through the efficiency of their own defence and the strength of our own right arm. Everywhere the power of defense in increasing, and who knows but all these things may be united in one great wave to dash upon our shores?"

The premier then urged the necessity of precaution in time, remarking that the material for military aggression was yearly increasing in power and efficiency among every one of the great nations, adding:

"In every race in history the great maritime power has been paralyzed, killed, not by disasters suffered in its provinces, but by a blow directed at the heart. The British navy, of course, ought to be sufficient. But are we wise in placing all our eggs in one basket?

"As to land defence, so far as I can see, in the nature of conscription is not a remedy the country is prepared to accept. Therefore we must induce the people to voluntarily put themselves in a position to defend their homes and country. The Primrose League can do much to foster the creation of rifle clubs. If once the feeling could be propagated that it is the duty of every able bodied Englishman to make himself competent to meet an invading army, we would have a defensive force which would make the chances of an assailant so bad that no assailant would appear."

This statement was also greeted with loud applause. After a resolution urging British subjects to prepare in times of peace so as to be ready to play their part in time of imperial emergency, had been carried by acclamation, the meeting adjourned.

Judge Hanington addressed the jury at considerable length, going quite minutely into the evidence given at the preliminary examination. At the conclusion of the judge's address the court adjourned until 2.30 o'clock.

FOR WELL PEOPLE

An Easy Way to Keep Well.

It is easy to keep well if we would only observe each day a few simple rules of health.

The all-important thing is to keep the stomach right and to do this it is not necessary to diet or to follow a set rule or bill of fare. Such pampering simply makes a capricious appetite and a feeling that certain favorite articles of food must be avoided.

Prof. Wiechold gives pretty good advice on this subject, he says: "I am 68 years old and have never had a serious illness, and at the same time my life has been largely an indoor one, but I early discovered that the way to keep healthy was to keep a healthy stomach, not by eating bran crackers or dieting of any sort; on the contrary I always eat what my appetite craves, but for the past eight years I have made it a daily practice to take one or two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal, and I attribute my robust health for a man of my age to the regular daily use of Stuart's Tablets.

My physician first advised me to use them because he said they were perfectly harmless and were not a secret patent medicine, but contained only the natural digestives, peptones and diastase, and after using them a few weeks I have never ceased to thank him for his advice.

I honestly believe the habit of taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after meals is the real health habit, because their use brings health to the sick and ailing and preserves health to the well and strong."

Men and women past fifty years of age need a safe digestive after meals to insure a perfect digestion and to ward off disease, and the safest, best known and most widely used is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They are found in every well regulated household from Maine to California and in Great Britain and Australia are rapidly pushing their way into popular favor.

All druggists sell Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, full sized pkgs. at 50 cents, and for a weak stomach a fifty cent package will often do fifty dollars worth of good.

ST. ANDREWS.

No Business for the Circuit Court—Accident to the Str. Arbutus.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., May 8.—The May term of Charlotte county circuit court was opened at two o'clock today by Chief Justice Tuck. The grand jurors elected Wm. Snodgrass foreman. The chief justice in brief terms charged the grand jury. He informed them that no indictments would be preferred before them, which was a subject for congratulation, as it was an indication of the freedom of the county from crime. He referred to the war in South Africa, speaking in eulogistic terms of the commander-in-chief, General Lord Roberts. He also spoke of the general prosperity of Canada, concluding by directing the grand jury to retire to their room, and if they found nothing to present, he would be pleased to discharge them. On the return of the grand jurors to the court room, Foreman Snodgrass stated that they had nothing to present. The judge then said he had omitted to state in his charge that on taking his seat on the bench he found on his desk in place of the calendar a pair of white kid gloves, placed there by the high sheriff, which showed that the county was clear from crime. He then dismissed the jurors and the court was adjourned sine die.

Mrs. Kelgour and her three children, wife of James Kelgour of the firm of Kelgour & Reeman, Winnipeg, Man., arrived here by C. P. R. last week and will remain at her father's (Peter Carroll), until Mr. K.'s return from the Paris exposition.

This morning, when near the Narrows in the St. Croix river, on her regular trip to St. Andrews, etc., the steamer Arbutus's engine broke down, making a great crash, that alarmed the passengers on board. The passengers in the cabin, principally ladies, rushed for the deck, and a male passenger trampled over a lady in his mad rush for the deck. The steamer Jeanette, which was in sight astern, was signalled for, came alongside, and making hawsers fast, towed the Arbutus to St. Andrews. The Viking, the other steamer of the line, is at present laid up for spring painting and general repairs. She will be got on the route as soon as possible. The energetic local manager, B. R. DeWolfe, has already made arrangements for the conveyance of the mails to the island and for the necessary repairs to the machinery of the Arbutus.

It has been determined that the anniversary of the Queen's birthday will be duly celebrated in the shiretown. A meeting was held in the town hall last evening to draw up a programme of the sports and the appointment of committees to carry out the same.

On his arrival here by C. P. R. today, Chief Justice Tuck was met at the depot by High Sheriff R. A. Stewart, who drove him to Kennedy's hotel in Mallory's barouche. Deputy Sheriff Chase occupied a seat on the box beside the driver. The chief justice returned to St. John by C. P. R. this afternoon.

A RIVER ACCIDENT.

Small Boat Upset While Trying to Connect with the May Queen.

An accident happened Friday afternoon to a small boat which was taking a passenger to the May Queen, at the Oinabog wharf, which almost cost the men in it their lives. Otis Mayes is the boatman at that place, and yesterday afternoon, on the arrival of the steamer, he rowed out to her, having in his boat a Mr. Scovil of Kings county, who had been visiting relatives at that place, some produce and four sheep. The small boat was rowed forward of the steamer's wheel instead of aft, and as the Queen swung partly around under the influence of wind and tide, the smaller craft was caught and badly broken. The men were thrown into the water. When Mr. Scovil, who was not able to swim, re-appeared, he caught hold of a piece of the wreckage and held himself above water by it. Mr. Mayes seemed to be able to take care of himself for a time. Four life preservers were thrown from the steamer and the captain gave orders to lower the boat. Men on shore had, however, noticed the accident and a couple of small craft were immediately rowed out and the men in the water were rescued. Two of the sheep were also saved.

Mr. Scovil was taken aboard the steamer and supplied with dry clothing by the captain and members of the crew. On his arrival at St. John he expressed himself as being none the worse for the accident. Mr. Mayes was taken ashore to his home.
