TOKIO, Oct. 16, 3 p. m.—Mr. Tersutcha, minister of war, has issued an order instructing the Japanese army in the field to abstain from criticising the terms of peace, on the ground that the declarations of peace and of war are entirely the outcome of sovereign power. He also forbids the criticism of the subject especially by those engaged in military service. He advised that soldiers utilize the opportunities of peace after the disbandment of their regiments by engaging in their respective occupations, also holding themselves in readiness to rejoin the colors at the emperor's command.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Reuter Telegram Company gives the text of the treaty of peace concluded by Russia and Japan at Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 5 and signed by Emperor Nicholas and the Emperor of Japan Oct. 16 as follows, etc.:

"The Emperor of Japan on one part and the Emperor of All The Russias on the other part animated by a desire to restore the blessings of peace to their countries, have resolved to conclude a treaty of peace, and have for this purpose named their plenipotentiaries, that is to say for his majesty the Emperor of Japan, Baron Komura Jutaro Jusami, grand cordon of the Imperial Order of the Rising Sun, his minister for foreign affairs, and His Excellency Takahira Kogoro, Imperial Order of the Sacred Treasure, his minister to the United States, and His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russians, His Excellency Sergius Witte, his secretary of state and president of the committee of ministers, and His Excellency Baron Roman Rosen, master of the imperial court of Russia, his majesty's ambassador to the United States, who, after having exchanged their full powers which were found to be good and dutiful, have concluded the following articles:

Article 1.—There shall henceforth be peace and amity between their mejesties the Emperor of Japan and the emperor of all the Russias and between their respective states and subjects.

Article 2.—The imperial Russian government, acknowledging that Japan possesses in Korea paramount political, military and economical interests, engages not to obstruct or interfere with measures for guidance, protection and control which the imperial government of Japan may find necessary to take in Korea. It is understood that Russian subjects in Korea shall be treated in exactly the same manner as the subjects and citizens of other foreign powers, that is to say, they shall be placed on the same footing as the subjects and citizens of the most favored nation. It is also agreed, in order to avoid cases of misunderstanding, that the two high contracting parties will abstain on the Russian-Korean frontier from taking any military measure which may menace the security of Russian or Japanese territory.

Article 3.—Japan and Russia mutually engage: First, to evacuate completely and simultaneously Manchuria except the territory affected by the lease of the Liao Tung peninsula in conformation with the provisions of the additional article one annexed to this treaty, and second, to restore entirely and completely to the exclusive administration of China all the portions of Manchuria under the control of the Japanese or Russian troops with the exception of the territory above mentioned.

The imperial government of Russia declare that they have not in Manchuria any territorial advantage or preferential or exclusive concessions to the impairment of Chinese sovereignty or inconsistent with the principle of equal opportunity.

Article 4.—Japan and Rusia reciprocally engage not to obstruct any general measures common to all countries which China may take for the development of the commerce or industry of Manchuria.

Article 5.—The imperial Russian government transfers and assigns to the imperial government of Japan, with the consent of the government of China, the lease of Port Arthur, Talien and the adjacent territory and territorial waters and all rights, privileges and concessions connected with or forming part of such lease, and they also transfer and assign to the imperial government of Japan all public works and properties in the territory affected by the above mentioned lease.

The two contracting parties mutually agree to obtain the consent of the Chinese government mentioned in the foregoing stipulations.

The imperial government of Japan on their part undertake that the property rights of Russian subjects in territory above referred to shall be perfectly respected.

Article 6.—The imperial Russian government engage to transfer and assign to the imperial government of Japan, without compensation and with the consent of the Chinese government, the railway between Chang-Chum-Fu and Uan-Chang-Tau and Port Arthur, and all the branches, all the rights, privileges and properties appertaining to the railway in said region belonging to or worked for the benefit of the railway. The two high contracting parties mutually agree to obtain the consent of the government of China mentioned in the foregoing stipulations.

Article 7.—Japan and Russia engage to exploit their respective railways in Manchuria exclusively for commercial and industrial purposes and no wise for strategetic purposes. It is understood that this restriction does not apply to the railway in the territory affected by the lease of the Liao Tung peninsula.

Article 8.—The imperial governments of Japan and Russia, with the view to promote and facilitate intercourse and traffic, will as soon as possible conclude a separate convention for the regulation of their connecting railway services in Manchuria.

Article 9.—The imperial Russian government cede to the imperial government of Japan in perpetuity and full sovereignty the southern portion of the Island of Sakahalin and all the islands adjacent thereto and the public works and properties thereon.

The fifth degree of north latitude is adopted as the northern boundary of the ceded territory. The exact alignment of such territory shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the additional article 11 annexed to this treaty.

Japan and Russia mutually agree not to construct in their respective possessions on the Island of Sakalin or the adjacent islands, any fortifications or other similar military works. They also respectively engage not to take any military measures which may impede the free navigation of the Straits of La Perouse and the Straits of Tartary.

Article 10.—Reserved to Russian subjects inhabitants of the territory ceded to Japan to sell their real property and retire to their country, but if they prefer to remain in the ceded territory they will be maintained and protected on the full exercise of their industries and rights of property on condition of submitting to the Japanese laws, and jurisdiction. Japan shall have full liberty to withdraw the right of residence in or to deport from such territory, or any inhabitants who labor under political or administrative disability. She engages, however, that the proprietary rights of such inhabitants shall be fully restored.

Article 11.—Russie engages to arrange with Japan for granting to Japanese subjects rights of fishery along the coast of the Russian possessions in the Japan, Okhotsk and Behring seas.

It is agreed that the foregoing engagement shall not affect rights already belonging to the Russian or foregoing subjects in those regions.

Article 12.—The treaty of commerce and navigation between Japan and Russia having been annulled by the war, the imperial governments of Japan and Russia engage to adopt as a basis for their commercial relations pending the conclusion of a new treaty for commercial relations pending the conclusion of a new treaty of commerce and navigation, the basis of the treaty which was in force previous to the present war, the system of reciprocal treatment on the footing of the most favored nation, in which are included import and export duties, customs formalities, transit and tonnage dues and the admission and treat of agents, subjects and vessels of one country in the territories of the other.

Article 13.—So soon as possible after the present treaty comes in force all prisoners of war shall be reciprocally restored. The imperial governments of Japan and Russia shall each appoint a special commissioner to take charge of the prisoners, all prisoners in the hands of one government shall be delivered to and received by the commissioner of other government by his duly appointed representative in such convenient numbers and such convenient ports of the delivering state as such delivering state shall notify in advance to the commissioner of the receiving state.

The governments of Japan and Russia shall present each other as soon as possible after the delivery of the prisoners is completed with a statement of the direct expenditures respectively incurred by them for the care and maintenance of the prisoners from the date of capture or surrender and up to the time of death or delivery. Russia engages to repay to Japan as soon as possible after the exchange of statements as above provided the difference between the actual amount so expended by Japan and the actual amount similarly disbursed by Russia.

Article 14.—The present treaty shall be ratified by their majesties the Emperor of Japan and the Emperor of all Russia. Such ratification shall be with as little delay as possible, and in any case no later than 50 days from the date of the signature of the treaty, to be announced to the imperial governments of Japan and Russia respectively through the French minister at Tokio and the Ambassador of the United States at St. Petersburg, and from that date of the latter of such announcement this treaty shall in all its parts come into full force. The formal exchange of ratifications shall take place at Washington as soon as possible.

The forces of the two countries occupying the front positions shall first be withdrawn.

The high contracting parties reserve to themselves the right to maintain guards to protect their respective railway lines in Manchuria. The number of such guards shall not exceed 15 per kilometer, and within that maximum number the commanders of the Japanese and Russian armies shall by common accord fix the number of such guards to be employed as small as possible, while having in view the actual requirements.

The commanders of the Japanese and Russian forces in Manchuria shall agree upon the details of the evacuation in conformity with the above principles, and shall take by common accord the measures necessary to carry out the evacuation as soon as possible, and in any case not later than the period of 18 months.

Sub-article to Article 9.—As soon as possible after the present treaty comes into force a commission of limitation composed of an equal number of members is to be appointed respectively by the two high contracting parties, which shall on the spot mark in a permanent manner the exact boundary between the Japanese and Russian possessions of the Island of Sakhalin.

The commission shall be bound so far as to paragraphically consider a permit to follow the 50th parallel of north latitude as the boundary line, and in case any deflections from that line at any points are found to be necessary, compensation will be made by co-relative deflections at other points. The work of the commission shall be subject to the approval of the high contracting parties.

The bride and her mother have been travelling in Europe since April, and were joined in London a few days before the wedding by Mr. Birchall and Mr. Bosworth. The marriage was solemnized in St. Matthew's church by the rector, only a few friends and some English relatives of the bride being present, besides the bride's parents. Afterwards breakfast was served at the Carlton hotel, and during the day Mr. and Mrs. Bosworth left in a motor for the Isle of Wight and Cornwall for a fortnight. They are now on the continent, and will return by a fast steamer via New York by the end of the month.

McALLISTER-PURDY.

An interesting event took place last evening at the residence of the officiating clergyman, Rev. P. J. Stackhouse, B. D., when Miss Nellie Maybell, daughter of Archelaus Purdy of Upper Jemseg, was united to Captain McAllister of tug Clayton. The bride looked beautiful in a travelling suit of navy blue broadcloth, and was unattended. The friends of the groom banquetted him and presented him with a silver tea service. The groom's present to the bride was a gold watch and chain. Among the many beautiful and costly presents received was a silver tea set from Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McMulkin. The happy couple leave on the 6.05 train for Cranbrook, British Columbia, where the groom has accepted a position with a lumber company. A host of friends will wish them every success in their new home.

HAMILTON-GRAY.

A quiet, but very interesting wedding took place at six o'clock this morning, at the home of the bride, when Rev. Dr. Fotheringham performed the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Louisa Gray, daughter of William Gray, Main street, to Wm. J. Hamilton, of Cebu, in the Philippines, formerly of St. John.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a navy blue travelling suit. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left for Fredericton, enroute for the west, and from there to their future home at Cebu.
