OLD MAN GETS BIG FORTUNE

Eighty Years Old, Heir to $300,000.

Romantic Case Before Massachusetts
Courts—Many Distant Relatives
Barred—A Strange Story.

BOSTON, April 6.—Because Benj. J. Ellis had the habit of putting his name and address on envelopes in which he sent letters, he furnished a clue to the administrators of the estate of Miss Susan Ellis Murdock of Carver, which has just resulted in the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts, declaring him a lawful heir to one-half of the estate, which amounts to about $300,000.

The case is one of the most romantic that has come before the courts for many years. By the merest chance it was discovered that Mr. Ellis, who is now almost eighty years, and who lives in Peoria, Ill., was an heir to a part of this fortune. The case has been in the Massachusetts courts more than three years, and distant relatives have come forward to the number of more than one hundred.

YET, by the decision of the supreme court handed down today, two first cousins, Benj. J. Ellis and Mrs. Louise Jane Ellis Pratt, of Sharon are declared to be the sole heirs.

For nearly three years a search has been made for another first cousin, Amiel Murdock, who if he could be found, or if it could have been proved that he was living subsequent to the death of Miss Murdock, would have shared a third of the estate and would have entitled nearly 100 relatives to participate in his share of the property.

The numerous claimants were nearly all second cousins.

MAY HAVE MURDERER OF LITTLE IDA AHERN

Raoul Bradley, a Former Boarder at Abern House, Arrested on Suspicion

MONTREAL, April 6.—Raoul Bradley was arrested this evening on suspicion of being the murderer of little Ida Ahern, whose body was found in the woods at Cote St. Paul yesterday.

The fact that the little girl appeared to be following the man willingly led to the suspicion that he was someone with whom she was acquainted. In answer to the description of the murderer was Bradley, who up to a short time ago was a boarder in the Ahern family, being compelled to leave for non-payment of board.

Dowling, the witness who had the best view of the murderer, was unable to positively identify Bradley as the man he saw in company with the girl. Bradley is not considered mentally sound.

A SHOCK ALL AROUND

(Toronto News.)

At an unexpected interruption in an after dinner speech Senator Hale smiled.

"These words," he said, "surprised and confused me. They came with a shock. They came with a shock like that which a young girl of Lode received one night."

"This young girl sat in her bedroom with a novel," he said, "and her feet were in red slippers. Now and then, extending her white arms, she yawned."

"You see, it was very late, and downstairs in the parlor her older sister was entertaining a young man. She naturally felt a deep interest in the entertainment. She was waiting to hear how it would terminate."

"And at last there was a sound in the hall, as if of a closing door, and it was plain to the impatient girl that the young man had gone."

"She threw down her novel, and running forth, peered over the balustrade down into the hall's intense blackness."

"Well, Maude," she said, "did you land him?"

"There was no immediate reply to her question. There was a silence, a peculiar silence, a silence with a certain strained quality in it. Then a masculine voice replied:

"Ehe did."

"I cannot understand you at all, Clara—why?"

"You get angry when I say you are mature, and when I say you are immature you get angry, too."

GORAM MILLIONS AGAIN TO FRONT

But No One is Receiving
Any Large Sums

Lynn Man's $100,000 is a Mythical
—Interesting Piece of Family History.

(Special to the Sun.)

BOSTON, April 6.—The story of the Coram family, alleged to be waiting for a fortune, has come to life again, one of the claimants, a Lynn man, asserting that he has received $100,000 as the first installment of his share of the fortune.

Unfortunately for this man, and the other $100,000 is a mythical fund. Others A. Coram, a rich Boston mine owner, is a relative of the Coram family which once lived near St. John.

Joseph says that the "fortune" appears to be like many others across the waters. They are seldom found outside of lawyer's offices.

The Lynn man, who calls himself Coram, instead of Coram, bases his claim on the following decidedly interesting piece of family history which is taken from the Lynn Daily Evening Item:

"Thomas Coram was the great-grandfather of the Lynn heir. A century ago he was a wealthy citizen of London, was a favorite with King George III, who was on the throne at that time, and in 1800 leased to the city of London for a term of 99 years a large tract of land upon which the authorities erected a hospital for children.

Soon after, Thomas Coram died, and his son, Thomas 2nd, took charge of the piece of parchment which brings so much to the heirs today. A few years later and the second generation left England, carrying the precious document with him to St. John, New Brunswick, where he settled and became a prosperous farmer and real estate owner.

"Thomas 2nd, placed the papers in a desk and it seemed that he forgot all about them, for they were not discovered until after his death, when one of his sons discovered them one day. This son was the only one left of the family, the others having perished through the ravages of the cholera, which he preferred to till the soil on the old farm. He blossomed out as a hot sport in a twinkling after he had taken a trip England, much to the surprise of his neighbors, who wondered where he managed to get so much money. He built himself a magnificent mansion, kept a fine stud of horses, a host of liveried servants, and did many other things which made his neighbors think that he had discovered gold somewhere on the farm. It was said that when he traveled he was accompanied by a body-guard of twenty men, who were armed in the latest fashion, riding on steeds which rivaled anything seen in even the big European world. When he traveled he carried money for such luxuries came from the neighbors worried a great deal to find out how he got the money trips which this Coram took across the water. It became noised about that he had discovered a tremendous secret which was valuable to the crown of England, and that he received a big hand-out to keep mum. When he died the administrator of his estate received $50,000, and the city of St. John, N. B., received the secret, leaked out that he had been receiving a soothing syrup for many years to preserve a strict silence."

"George Gorham of Lynn went to New York city and by hard work and lucky speculations managed to become a rich man. Dame Fortune again favored him, and the city of St. John, N. B., loved the money of the Goram family, however, as the big panic in Wall street, known as 'Black Friday,' carried away $125,000 which Gorham had saved up during his little fling on the Exchange. Discouraged from the wreck of his fortune, he came to this city and started all over again in the bowling alley business, buying out the Eureka alley, and later on establishing himself on Andrew street, his present place of business."

"The story of Gorham and his efforts to secure that which rightly belongs to him and his kin are too well known to go into detail. Suffice to say that less than a year ago Thomas Coram, a distant relative, sailed across the briny deep to London to pursue old palm phlets and documents to establish the claim of the Coram family. He found that the Children's Hospital had been on account of the rapid growth of that portion of the city from a residential vicinity to the noise and bustle which denotes business activity. The land has now become the very heart of London and is so valuable that Thomas Coram was given a big pension to keep the matter a secret."

It should be said that this version is not borne out in all its details by the Boston branch of the family, who place little credence in the existence of a fortune waiting to be divided.

A foreigner giving his name as Jim Lynch, called at the police court this morning and complaining that Tom Callahan had assaulted him and torn his coat in the Ship Laborers' hall on Water street this morning. The police are investigating the matter.

COUNTRY MARKET.

The markets do not show an extraordinary change for this month. Pork is higher, but there have been small declines in other staple articles. Butter is somewhat scarce. The market in the market produce is the arrival of celery, lettuce, parsley, rhubarb and cucumbers. The cucumbers are native grown and over a foot in length. S. Z. Dickson of the country market has some of the earliest in this line, being grown at Pedersen's, on the Sandy Point Road.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 9.—The fiercest riot San Francisco has witnessed in a generation was a sequel last evening to the meeting of Socialists at the Hotel de Ville, where they were charged with the murder of a police officer.

At the meeting some typical violent socialist speeches were made in which it was declared that Moyer and Hay-wood were traitors and that if convicted they would not be hanged upon less the entire United States army was brought in to assist in their execution.

At the conclusion of the speechmaking a procession was organized and the participants in the assembly marched down Market street headed by a band. At the corner of Kearney and Market streets a halt was made and the parade was substituted as speaker and the parade was substituted as speaker and the parade was substituted as speaker.

He was in the midst of his talk when policemen John Steiner and W. J. Cavanaugh and Detective Ryan made their way through the crowd. Ryan tore a red flag from the speaker and it to Steiner. He then declared Holmes to desert but was met with a refusal and the detective pulled Holmes down to the pavement. In a moment Holmes was knocked down and kicked in the hand-to-hand fight, and he flag torn from his grasp. Ryan, who had held Holmes all of the time, started to take a path way his club while the speaker, who was holding the flag, was being carried off by the crowd.

Other officers kept the crowd back. Near the fountain a new building is being erected and the street was full of building debris. Almost instantly there was a shower of soap iron, bricks and blocks of wood upon the crowd and the missiles crashed through the windows injuring a number of passers.

The motorman was made a target but did not do the damage. The rioters were arrested. The rioter was charged with disturbing the peace.

INSOMNIA

Leads to Madness, if Not Remedied
in Time

"Experiments satisfied me, some 5 years ago," writes a Topeka woman, "that coffee was the direct cause of my insomnia. I had been suffering terribly, as well as the acute dyspepsia which made life a most painful thing for me. I had been a coffee drinker since childhood, but I did not like to think that the beverage was doing me so much harm. But it was, and the time came when I had to face the fact, and protect myself. I therefore gave it up, and after a few days I found myself entirely relieved—the nervousness passed away, my digestive apparatus was restored to normal efficiency, and I began to sleep, restfully and peacefully."

"These happy conditions have continued during all of the 5 years, and I am safe in saying that I owe them entirely to Postum Food Coffee, for when I began to drink it I ceased to use medicine." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.
